

Verdict Expected Today in Flogging Case at Toccoa

Fate of Elmer Clark, Second Defendant Tried, Placed in Hands of Jury Yesterday Afternoon.

SINGLETON CASE TO BE CALLED NEXT

State Seeks Conviction in Bowers Whipping on Network of Circumstantial Evidence.

BY BEN COOPER,
Staff Correspondent.

Toccoa, Ga., July 13.—A carefully woven network of direct and circumstantial evidence by which the state expects to convict Elmer Clark, railroad man, of participating in the brutal flogging of Mrs. Ansley Bowers on the morning of June 12, was in the hands of a Stephens county jury tonight.

However, the report of a verdict tonight was precluded when Judge I. H. Sutton, presiding, was summoned to his home at Clarksville on account of the serious illness of his father-in-law, Dr. J. K. Burns.

Judge Sutton was advised of the illness of Dr. Burns after the case had gone to the jury at 7 o'clock tonight and after receiving the consent of counsel on both sides, left for his home, stating that he would return for the opening of court Thursday morning. He instructed the jury that if it reached a verdict tonight that it could not be reported to the court until tomorrow.

Solicitor McMillan announced to night that he will call for trial Thursday morning the flogging case of Bart Singleton, a farmer who was whipped on March 11 after being charged with bootlegging. W. G. Acree, Jim Aderholdt, Moses Jordan, Hendrix Wiley and Bart Lowry were indicted last week by the grand jury in the Singleton case.

Also in the hands of the jury is a chain of testimony by which the defense seeks to show that Clark was in his home attending to the needs of a sick baby during the hours the state alleges he was flogging a woman.

Mass of Testimony.
In addition, the jury had a mass of testimony aimed at impeachment of witnesses on both sides, the defense chiefly seeking to discredit the statement of Mrs. Bowers and her 15-year-old son, Lloyd, in which they identified Clark as one of the 12 hooded and robed men who visited the Bowers home at 2 o'clock on the morning of June 12.

Argument occupied the attention of opposing counsel this afternoon, the case going to the jury early this evening.

Chief points of contest introduced Tuesday and today are whether or not Mrs. Jordan, a defendant in the Singleton case, came by the Toccoa ice plant midnight of the flogging and stopped by Clark's house to pick him up; whether or not Clark was at home all night with his sick baby; whether or not Mrs. Bowers and her son could identify Clark as a flogger by his build, walk and voice, both the prosecutor and his mother claiming that they recognized Clark principally by the fact that he is pigtailed.

Highly damaging testimony against the defense's case was introduced this morning when Harrison Dooley, a new witness, was called by the state, who stated that he saw Mrs. Jordan, a defendant in the Singleton case, and Jesse B. Jordan, father of Mrs. Jordan, and another man in Toccoa near midnight of June 12, a short distance from Elmer Clark's home and headed in that direction in their automobile. Dooley's testimony, added to that of Arch. White and Arthur Shelton, ice plant employees, was believed to have

ARMS DELEGATES SEEK NEW IDEAS AT GENEVA VILLA

Plenary Session Today Located in Different Atmosphere in Hope Solution May Be Found.

Geneva, July 13.—(AP)—The tripartite naval conference still is wobbling along, but has achieved nothing definite on the grave issue revolving about cruisers.

Presumably the moment is fast approaching when either some solution must be discovered or the delegates must separate to permit further reflection. Nevertheless, a plenary session has been convoked for tomorrow afternoon to permit a summing up of the situation.

The principal delegates have gone over the same problem in the same atmosphere so often that today it was decided to gather in a villa just outside Geneva. The hope was expressed that the new environment would inspire new remedies.

However, a long exchange of views, characterized by both frankness and courtesy, failed to result in any progress, according to reliable information. On behalf of the Japanese delegation, Viscount Ishii made clear Japan's determination not to accept a high level for cruiser to nage. In doing so, however, he followed the Japanese tradition of cloaking difficult things in polite phrases.

Hugh Gibson, chief American delegate, and Viscount Cecil, of Chelwood, of the British contingent, had a long talk over the cruiser problems. "It is understood that they frankly recognized the difficulties of each other's positions."

Japan Stands Firm.
After agreeing to convene a plenary session, the meeting adjourned with Japan in a position of opposition to a high cruiser limitation, even if such were accepted by Great Britain and the United States.

The American delegation was less disposed than ever to accept a maximum of 400,000 tons, because of Japan's opposition.

Considerable mystery enshrouds tomorrow's public session. The Americans appear to have a clear understanding that no controversial questions will be taken up. According to their understanding, the meeting will be restricted to formal statements indicating the position of the conference.

NEW YORK TICKET SELLERS GUILTY IN TAX FRAUDS

New York, July 13.—(AP)—The first conviction growing out of the investigation by Charles H. Tuttle, United States attorney, into charges that New York ticket agencies were defrauding the government of income taxes came today when Alexander Theater Ticket Office, Inc., and two of its officers were found guilty by a federal court jury on all counts against them.

HAIL A FOOT DEEP,
WITH MERCURY 90

Ault, Colo., July 13.—(United News.)—An accommodating hail storm broke today when the mercury registered 90 degrees and in 30 minutes piled up cracked ice a foot deep along Main street.

The hail stones, large as walnuts, broke practically all windows on the south side of the business district, riddled scores of automobile tops and broke up a game at the city ball park.

BY UNITED NEWS.

Twenty-four known dead and hundreds of prostrations constituted the toll of the heat wave in the eastern half of the United States on the basis of statistics compiled Wednesday night by the United News.

Relief to the sweltering territory between the Mississippi valley and the Atlantic seaboard was promised by the weather bureau with forecast of thundershowers within 24 hours.

The first break in heat was reported Wednesday night from New England where a cool rain was falling. In other parts of the east temperatures ranged into the nineties.

Although many deaths probably have not been officially reported, the following table gives an indication of the heat wave's work:

Chicago, 10 dead.
New York, 7 dead.
Schenectady, 2 dead.
Columbus, Ohio, 1 dead.
Sandusky, Ohio, 1 dead.
Albany, 1 dead.
Strasburg, 1 dead.
New Bedford, Mass., 1 dead.

STATE COLLEGES ASK $3,000,000

Tech and Georgia Lead in Request To Appropriations Committee for More Funds.

Georgia's higher educational institutions pleaded before the appropriations committee late Wednesday for more than $3,000,000 in the next year. All asked substantial increases over last year both in maintenance funds and in provision for buildings and repairs.

Georgia Tech, the University of Georgia, the State Agricultural College, the State Medical college, the State Normal at Statesboro, the Third District A. & M. college at Americus, the State School for Mental Defectives and the State College for Women all were represented.

Wednesday's was the last of the appropriations committee's open hearings. The ways and means committee voted to report favorably a bill for technical perfection of the state inheritance tax law, and unfavorably on one to levy a 10 per cent tax on medicines, tobacco and soft drinks and a 4 cents a gallon tax on kerosene oil.

The senate committee on constitutional amendment will report favorably today on a bill to increase the salaries of the supreme court judges from $5,000 to $7,500 a year and justices of the supreme court and the court of appeals from $7,000 to $12,000 a year.

COUNTY REGISTRY OF CARS PLANNED IN NEW PROPOSAL

Decentralization of automobile registration in Georgia will take place if a proposal which met the approval Wednesday of Fulton county commissioners is voted. Each county will register machines operating within its limits and this, it is pointed out, would relieve congestion at the capitol, all machines at the state capitol.

Fulton county voted $500 for printing the bill and circulating it throughout the state. No opposition was registered to the proposition and an several pointed out that it not only would relieve congestion at the capitol, but would actually bring revenue into the counties from registration. A certain percentage of collections would go to the county for collection, under provisions of the bill.

GOOD SERVICE BASIS FOR HIKE, COMPANY SAYS

Second Day of Ten-Cent Fare Hearing Ends With Street Railway Case Yet Incomplete.

EXPENSE PLACING HIT BY OPPOSITION

Testimony of T. L. McBrayer, Union Head, Praises Car Service and Employment Conditions.

Verification of the property valuation exhibits introduced at the opening session of the public service commission's hearing of the Georgia Power company's petition for fare increases by A. J. Luick and statements in tended to show the high quality of street railway service in Atlanta was the principal aim of testimony presented by the power company's witnesses Wednesday, as the hearing proceeded through the second day.

While the power company was still in the midst of presentation of its case, it was indicated by City Attorney James L. Mayson, heading the forces in opposition to the proposed fare increase, that the issue at stake would be hotly contested when his side has its inning. A feature of the Wednesday hearing was seen in Attorney Mayson's request that the 1924 audit of Ernest & Ernst, made on the property of the power company at the request of the city, be brought up to date.

Differences in opinion of what is the proper allocation of expenses between various departments of the Georgia Power company again figured in the arguments of the company and the opponents to the boost in trolley fares. The possibility that an important portion of the hearing may center in the controversy over allocation of expenses between the street railway department, electric power and service department and the gas service and other departments, became apparent with the constant recurrence of this issue throughout the first two days.

The hearing was resumed Wednesday.

HARDMAN HIGHWAY BILL ABOLISHING ROAD BOARD BEFORE ASSEMBLY TODAY

THREE COUNTIES MERGER APPROVED BY FULTON BOARD

Commissioners Okay Fulton, Campbell, Clayton Union, Provided Voters Favor Plan.

Added impetus was given the proposal to annex Campbell and Clayton counties to Fulton Wednesday afternoon when members of Fulton county commission voted unanimous approval, with the single proviso that the enabling act carry a provision for a referendum in Fulton county.

Under state laws, here-forth, the votes cast in Clayton and Campbell would have to be favorable to annexation, and then the enabling act passed up by the general assembly, the consolidation would hold an election on the merger plan between now and the next meeting of the legislature.

When results of the consolidation proposal are submitted to the assembly at its next regular biennial session, the act which would provide for the merger would carry a stipulation that the consolidation would take place if a majority of Fulton county voters favor it.

Attention of the Fulton commissioners was directed to the proposal at a meeting of the commission a week ago, when Miss Bessie Kempton, member of the legislature from Fulton, appeared before the board and asked its reaction to the consolidation.

Opinion of the board was reserved until Wednesday, and at that time all members took the position that they would favor the plan, if voters of this county do. They, therefore, decided to favor it with the referendum clause added to the enabling act.

C. H. Gallette, member of the assembly from Campbell, appeared at the meeting Wednesday afternoon and urged approval. Mr. Black, chairman of the Clayton county commission, also favored the proposal in an address.

Two other papers were referred to the Georgia legislature Wednesday by the commission. One offered by Commissioner Walter Stewart, would enable the county to purchase and maintain parks for recreational purposes and the other would permit counties of the state to apportion funds for establishment and operation of libraries.

The first would not require a constitutional amendment, but the latter would. Members of the commission debated the advisability of approving the last listed paper for some minutes. Commissioner Charles Turner contended that Fulton county would, under provisions of the paper, be taxed for libraries to be established in other counties. A correction of the paper was made to prevent any possibility of this being done.

John Otley sponsored the library paper.

Speakers in favor of the bill as offered, countered with the assertion that the allocation of one-third was made when the gasoline tax was three cents per gallon, and that when the tax was increased to three and one-half cents per gallon, the additional one-half cent was given to the general construction fund and the portion to be given the counties not affected. More than a score of the members asked that their vote on the bill be changed after numerous speakers had attacked this provision of the bill.

House members took up the three minutes allotted to them for explanation of their vote on the bill in its original form appears to take away from counties the one cent per gallon previously allocated to them for county roads and put these funds in the general treasury. The bill would specifically allocate two and one-half cents of the three and one-half cent gasoline tax to state-aid highway construction and makes no mention of the county revenue.

Monthly Payments Required.

The bill requires monthly instead of quarterly payment of gasoline tax by distributors, and its sponsors have contended that its operation will result in the saving of many thousands of dollars annually. The state, instead of the gasoline distributor, if the senate passes the bill, now will receive interest from banks on the leg and was cut and bruised. The other was cut on the arm.

Washington, July 13.—(United News.)—Noble Giacomo de Martino, Italian ambassador, narrowly escaped injury today when his high-powered roadster crashed into a truck, injuring two occupants. One of the injured men received a compound fracture of the leg and was cut and bruised. The other was cut on the arm.

The ambassador told police the truck swerved around a corner directly in the path of his machine. He said he was driving slowly.

Oakland-Hawaii Dash Starts This Morning

SMITH EXPECTS TO BETTER ARMY TIME

BY BEN E. TITUS.

Bay Farm Island Airport, Oakland, Calif., July 13.—(United News.)—With her gasoline tanks filled, her motor tuned to the highest pitch of perfection, and her radio equipment thoroughly tested, the little silver monoplane "City of Oakland" waits under police guard for the dawn when she will wing out through the Golden Gate and across the Pacific for Hawaii.

For an hour and 12 minutes Wednesday, Ernie Smith, pilot, and Ermorey Bronte, navigator, flew above San Francisco bay and out to sea in the last test flight. They reported the plane performing perfectly, and the army's radio beacon at Crissy field functioning with absolute accuracy.

Both Smith and Bronte retired soon after they landed from the test flight and left strict orders that they were not to be disturbed until early morning. They were said by Captain William H. Royle, flight manager, to be resting at a hotel, the location of which he would not divulge.

Because the aviators expect to make the hop to Honolulu in something under 21 hours, the starting time, originally set for 7 a. m., was delayed until about 8 or 9 a. m., to give them daylight in which to locate the landing at Wheeler field, Honolulu.

"The City of Oakland" was fueled late Wednesday with 370 gallons of gasoline, and 15 gallons of oil. Its weight, loaded, will be about 4,800 pounds.

The radio equipment of the plane is especially designed and weighs less than 50 pounds. The radio outfit used by Lieutenants Maitland and Hegenberger in the first trans-Pacific flight weighed 125 pounds.

Ermorey plans to keep in touch with the army radio beacons at Crissy field, San Francisco, and Wheeler field, Honolulu, but he will also carry navigating instruments used in ship reckoning in case the radio beacons fail as they did when the army fliers neared the Hawaii.

A rubber boat similar to the one in which Commander Byrd and his companions went ashore after the "America" had dashed into the surf off the coast of France, will be included in the equipment of the "City of Oakland."

The fliers will take two homing pigeons with them. One of the birds will be released when the plane is 200 miles out and the second when it passes the "400 mile post."

Complete reorganization and reconstruction of the state highway department through the abolition of the present state highway board, the creation of a state highway commission, payment of all funds raised from gasoline taxes and sale of license taxes into the state treasury and establishment of state traffic regulations to be administered by the proposed new commission, is provided in a new highway bill to be introduced in the legislature Thursday, which has the approval of Governor L. G. Hardman.

This bill refers only to the operative machinery of the state highway department and does not take up the question of state mileage for the road system, which is covered in the Thompson bill introduced in the senate and which also has the approval of the governor.

Under the provisions of the bill it will become effective January 1, 1928. At that time the terms of office of the three present members of the state highway board will expire and the appointment of the members of the new commission will be in the hands of the governor. Governor Hardman has announced that he favors the appointment of engineers to membership on the state highway commission, as provided in the new measure.

Commission of Three.
Governor Hardman has been working for several weeks helping prepare the bill to be introduced Thursday. He stated Wednesday that the bill provides for engineers to do engineering work and that the new measure simply carries out plain business methods in road building, bridge building and maintenance of highways.

On the new state highway commission will be three members, a highway commissioner, an assistant highway commissioner and a chief engineer. This commission of three men will have charge of employing and discharging the people who work for the department. The nine district engineers as now provided, are retained in the new bill, but each engineer can be discharged at will by the new commission. The highway commissioner is to be appointed by the governor. His assistant is to be selected by the commissioner, with the approval of the governor. The chief engineer is to be named by the commissioner and the commissioner will have authority to day morning with recalling of Mr. L. L. McBrayer, president of the local carmen's union, who testified to the favorable comparison between service and employment conditions among the carmen of Atlanta and elsewhere. With the introduction of F. A. Brine, general auditor for the power company, a feature of the afternoon session was offered. Preston S. Arkwright, head of the power company, who continued to conduct their side of the case, attempted to show through the auditor the accuracy of the company's system of keeping books. Mr. Brine verified the figures that were previously presented by Mr. L. L. McBrayer. Completion of the power company's case is expected to come today, with the reappearance of Mr. Arkwright and Harry M. Atkinson, high officials of the company, on the witness stand. Opposing forces will then take the chief role of the hearing, it is expected.

Afternoon Session.
At the opening of the afternoon session, after an adjournment for lunch, Mr. Mayson asked Mr. McBrayer a number of questions regarding street car fares in other cities. The witness replied that he was unprepared to state exactly the fares in a number of cities. He did, however, say that in Detroit the fare was 6 cents, with a 1-cent charge for transfers, but that the company turned all cases, attempted to show through the auditor the accuracy of the company's system of keeping books. Mr. Brine verified the figures that were previously presented by Mr. L. L. McBrayer. Completion of the power company's case is expected to come today, with the reappearance of Mr. Arkwright and Harry M. Atkinson, high officials of the company, on the witness stand. Opposing forces will then take the chief role of the hearing, it is expected.

At this juncture Mr. Arkwright interrupted to state that the company had a list of the fares charged in all cities in the United States, which it could put in evidence. On this statement, Mr. Mayson said he would await the introduction of this evidence regarding street car fares.

Mr. Mayson asked Mr. McBrayer if it weren't a general custom throughout the country on street railways to make a reduction for children. Mr. McBrayer said it was not a general custom and that the only city which he had visited where fares were cheaper for children was Chicago. He stated in response to a question that in Atlanta children three years of age and under are transported free and all others, regardless of age, pay the full fare.

Refers to Pay Increase.

The question of wage increase for the street car men of Atlanta was referred to by the witness, who, when asked by the city attorney how these gains had been obtained by the men, acknowledged that on the two last occasions it was by arbitration.

That is, Mr. Mayson brought out, "neither your union nor the company could agree on a wage settlement and the wage adjustment had to be rendered by an arbitration committee." The attorney replied in the affirmative. Attorney Hutcheson took up the cross-examination at this point and questioned the witness regarding a letter written by the company indorsing the proposed fare adjustment. The attorney asked the witness what instigated the letter and he replied that it was the result of resolutions adopted at a meeting held on last Thanksgiving.

The attorney also questioned him at length regarding the amount of wages and the amount of average earnings of street car men. Mr. McBrayer said that the men on the two-men cars averaged $112.32 per month and on one-man cars they averaged $128.96 per month. He said the men averaged between eight and a half and nine hours per day, and worked an average of 26 days per month. The men are paid time and a half for all time over eight hours that they work, he said.

The attorney asked the witness if wages in cities of the north, east and west weren't higher than they are in Atlanta. Mr. McBrayer said as a general rule they were higher in the east and north.

"The reason higher street car fares obtain in other cities is because the men are paid higher wages, isn't it?" asked the attorney.

Claims High-Grade Men.

"No," he said, "that is true," said Mr. McBrayer. On redirect examination Mr. Arkwright brought from the witness a statement that reasonably higher wages attract a better class of men and that the type of men operating the street cars in Atlanta are several hundred percent higher than they were some years ago.

Attorney Hutcheson asked Mr. McBrayer how many of the men owned homes and how many of them owned automobiles. The witness replied he didn't know. He said that in his opinion that 10 per cent of the trainmen owned their own homes and that 30 per cent of them were buying automobiles on the monthly payment plan. About 10 per cent own automobiles, he said. After he had completed his examination, Mr. McBrayer asked permission to make a statement and was granted the request.

He said that he believed the street car operators were entitled to receive as much money as city policemen, who are paid $178 monthly.

"We street car men live in this city and pay taxes to pay the salaries of policemen and also pay the salary of Mr. Mayson (the witness was referring to City Attorney James L. Mayson). Our taxes are used to pay these salaries and also any increases which they may get. We believe the people of this city are willing to pay a reasonable increase in our income so that we may become better citizens of the community in which we work and live."

F. A. Brine, general auditor of the Georgia Power company, followed Mr. McBrayer on the witness stand. He testified that the figures the company furnished Mr. Luick were correct and that the books of the company are kept accurately and according to recognized methods.

No "Cooking Up" Charged.

In the midst of Mr. Brine's testimony, Attorney Hutcheson interrupted to state that there was no doubt that the company was keeping its books in the most approved style and that no question had been raised of the company's "cooking up" figures to state that the street railway department was not making a profit. Mr. Arkwright pointed out that whether or not such aspersions were made against the company it was well for the fact to be known that there were no discrepancies in the keeping of the company's books and that it was unnecessary for the company to keep its own books, this being the only possible procedure.

In response to a question by Mr. Arkwright to bring out the cost of appraisals and audits Mr. Brine said that the company paid the Beeler organization, which was employed by the city of Atlanta, a total of $134,771.53 and that the company paid the firm of Ernst & Ernst, auditors, also employed by the city of Atlanta, a total of $2,254. He estimated that a new audit would cost approximately $250,000.

At this point Mr. Arkwright stressed the expense of a new audit and attempted to show the needlessness of such a step. "The audit by Ernst & Ernst was made at the request of the city for an independent examination of the company's books, our concern being the cost," the power head stated. "When completed the city took no action on the auditors' report, but now, several years later, asks for a new one at the company's expense."

City Attorney Mayson arose to explain it was not an entirely new audit he was seeking, but merely that the report of Ernst & Ernst be brought down to date. "Surely, if at the time the city asked for the initial audit, it was judged proper to grant its request," said the city official, "it must be considered justifiable now to ask that the original audit be brought down to the date of this hearing. That is all we ask." Chairman Perry stated he would pass on this request at the end of the hearing.

Adjustment in Figures.
Later in cross examination of Mr. Brine, the city attorney called attention to the adjustment in the company's figures that was recommended by Ernst & Ernst in its audit and which, Mr. Mayson stated, he understood was accepted by the company. The correction referred to was in the single item of past taxes, kept on the company's books in a lump sum, but allocated to the various departments in subsidiary reports submitted at the 1924 hearing, 72 per cent being charged to street railways. Mr. Arkwright pointed out that it was in the allocation made in the subsidiary reports and not any figure in the company's books that the Ernst & Ernst allocation referred to.

Louie P. Marquardt, who is secretary and a former president of the state federation of labor, and well known as a labor leader, was next introduced as witness by Mr. Arkwright.

He declared that he had visited in a number of cities throughout the United States and that in his opinion the service rendered by the Atlanta street railroad excelled that of any city he ever had visited. Asked if he thought whether wages paid employees had anything to do with the service rendered, Mr. Marquardt replied that in his opinion it had everything to do with the service, not only that rendered by street car companies but by any kind of company in the world.

Mr. Arkwright asked the witness if he thought that the public would be willing to pay the cost of good service and Mr. Marquardt declared that he assuredly did.

"Does a reasonable rate of pay attract a high-type of employee?" asked Mr. Arkwright.

High Living Standard Needed.
"There isn't any doubt at all about that," Mr. Marquardt said, adding, "I have always felt and stated publicly that in order for industries to live and operate they should pay employees a high enough wage to justify them in having a high standard of living. I have found that the men in the employ of the street railway in Atlanta today are of a much higher type than they were ten or fifteen years ago. I have known these men ever since I have been in Atlanta and have taken pride in their advancement."

"Then better wages pay a direct return to the public, don't they?" asked Mr. Arkwright.

"I would say so—yes, sir," replied Mr. Arkwright asked him what influence an adequate, progressive and efficient street railway had on the community and the benefit of the community, and the welfare and comfort of the people.

The witness declared that it had a tremendous influence on the community and that an efficient, modern street car service was an essential necessity to any progressive city.

"Therefore, the users of this street car service, and the community as a whole, should not be asked to pay the cost of its operation, shouldn't they?" Mr. Arkwright asked.

"I always have felt that anyone should pay good salaries and that the pay should be commensurate with the service rendered."

At this point the hearing adjourned until 10:30 o'clock Thursday morning.

Luick On Stand.
A. J. Luick, Chicago valuation engineer, employed by the Georgia Power company, whose testimony consumed the major portion of Tuesday, was on the witness stand when the Wednesday session of the hearing on the power company's plea for an adjustment of street car fares was opened. He testified that he was called to Miami, Fla., July 13.—(P)—Testimony that Fred Osius, inventor and manufacturer, was traveling at the rate of 50 to 60 miles an hour the day he was skidded off the highway, causing Mrs. Bain Miller and her six-year-old son, Marvin, to be given in death county court of criminal record this afternoon, when Osius went on trial for manslaughter.

OSIUS SPEEDING ON CAUSEWAY, WITNESSES SAY

The accident occurred June 27. A coroner's jury exonerated Mr. Osius of blame, but County Solicitor R. R. Taylor, Jr., caused warrants to be issued charging Mr. Osius with manslaughter in connection with the two deaths.

Georgian Claims He Was Shot While Stealing Train Ride
Louisville, Ky., July 12.—(P)—Ollis Parris, 33, of LaFayette, Ga., was brought to a hospital here today in a serious condition after having been shot by George Heatt, 60, a Louisville and Nashville railroad night watchman, at Lebanon Junction, Ky.

Parris had papers showing he was a disabled world war veteran and railroad employees said he suddenly attacked them. He told police at Lebanon Junction that he was attacked and shot when caught stealing a ride in a freight car.

Return Suspended.
Columbus, Ohio, July 13.—(P)—Chief Justice C. T. Marshall, of the Ohio supreme court, today issued an order suspending the return of Nathan Weinheimer, to New York, where he is wanted by authorities, on condition that he post a $50,000 bond with the court of appeals at Cleveland. He is wanted in New York in connection with one of the Whittemore diamond robberies.

Advertising Not Included.
Attorney Hutcheson asked the witness if he knew what amount of money the power company expended last year on advertising. And if that amount was in his appraisal. Mr. Luick replied that he did not know the amount but that while it might be included in the operating expenses, it was not included in his appraisal.

T. L. McBrayer, president and business agent of local 732, Amalgamated Association of Electric Street Railway Trainmen was the next witness. He stated that he had been a trainman in Atlanta for 17 years and that his duties as president of the Atlanta local necessitated his visiting many cities throughout the country.

Examination of the witness was conducted by Mr. Arkwright.

"How do the physical properties of the Atlanta street railway compare with those of other cities?"

"They compare favorably. That is, they are as good as any and better than most that I have observed."

"How does the service rendered by the Atlanta system compare with others?"

"The service is as good as any and better than most that I have observed."

"How does the treatment of the men compare with the treatment of men in other cities?"

"It's the best I ever saw."

"Mr. McBrayer, what are the wages of the Atlanta trainmen?"

"For the first nine months it is 46 cents an hour. For the second nine months 51 cents an hour and after that 54 cents an hour. That is, where there are two men in a car. For cars operated by one man the pay is eight cents an hour more."

"When was this agreement put into effect?"

"May 15, 1927."

"It was due to the urgent solicitation of the motormen, conductors and operators, wasn't it?"

"Well, are salaries adequate now?"

"No."

"Do the men still want an increase?"

"Yes. In fact, I have been continually seeking an increase for them since January 1, 1923, with without success."

"Why have they sought this increase?"

"Because they feel that they are underpaid for the service they render, which, in my opinion, is the best and most courteous of any service in the country. They feel that the money paid them is not enough for them to live upon and become good citizens of Atlanta."

"The operation of street cars requires patience, skill and tact?"

"Yes."

"The men are strictly disciplined, aren't they, they are not discharged for discourtesy, for avoidable accidents, etc?"

"Yes. The discipline of the men is very strict."

"At this point Chairman James E. Perry interrupted to ask if the agreement of wages of men made on May 15, 1927, was the same as that in effect last year."

Mr. McBrayer replied that it was the same except that it was increased 3 cents an hour for the operators of one-man cars, but that the wages paid men on the two-men cars are the same as last year.

Public Sentiment.
Mr. Arkwright asked Mr. McBrayer: "Are you acquainted with public sentiment in Atlanta?" Attorney Hutcheson objected, stating that public sentiment had nothing to do with the case. Commissioner Perry ruled the question out, saying, "I don't see how it could enter into an intelligent discussion of the case." He said that somebody, whose name he did not recall, wrote the commission a letter saying that he had signed the Paulin petition and wanted his name withdrawn and stated that he was willing to pay the 10-cent fare.

Chairman Perry continued said

KNOCKED TO CURB BY HEAVY TRUCK, WOMAN IS HURT

Mrs. Eva Baker, 52, of 505 Crew street, received minor bruises and lacerations about the body late Wednesday afternoon when she was struck by a truck driven by C. H. Crawford, employee for a local department store, according to police reports.

The accident occurred near the intersection of Hurt street and DeKalb avenue. Crawford picked up the injured woman, carried her to Grady hospital, where she received medical attention and then carried her home. No case was made as it is said that Mrs. Baker stepped from the curb directly in front of the machine.

POLICE OPERATION WINS HIGH PRAISE OF COMMITTEE
Members of the 1927 police committee of city council Wednesday established a record for brevity of the trial session and spent several hours in a minute inspection of operation of the department.

Trial of P. B. Dailey, patrolman, on charges of possession of a gun, on his house, was deferred at the request of Paul Lindsay, his attorney who also is a member of the Georgia legislature. Mr. Lindsay, citing the fact that legislative duties have so consumed his time that he has been unable to try to prepare the defense asked for continuance. The committee set the trial for July 27. Dailey is under $2,000 bond to DeKalb county courts pending trial.

High praise of operation of the department was voiced by Charles Marple, chairman of the committee, and others, who declared that the department is now operating more efficiently and smoothly than in many months previous. Chief of Police James L. Beavers and Assistant Chief A. Lamar Poole were congratulated.

Indian Fighter To Spend Last Days With First Love

Washington, July 13.—(P)—There is rejoicing tinged with sorrow out in the barracks of the seventh cavalry at Fort Bliss, Texas, for a sturdy old Indian fighter who for more than 30 years knew no other home than the seventh is back again to his last command.

He is Colonel Selah R. H. Tompkins on the army lists, but to the troopers of the seventh and to nearly every officer of the army he is "Tommy" Tompkins.

From shavetail second lieutenant to colonel commanding, Colonel Tompkins carried his saber in the seventh through every commissioned grade, with honor to himself and the regiment he loves. He was born in Washington, D. C., a son of General Charles Tompkins and of a family that has contributed its sons to the officer corps of the American army ever since that army came along. Lieutenant Colonel Daniel D. Tompkins, a brother, also a cavalryman, remains in the service and another cavalry brother, Colonel Frank Tompkins, retired, is at Norwich university, Vermont, teaching the cavalry training unit there things is should know of army life.

Next Sunday Colonel "Tommy" will lay aside his saber on his sixty-fourth birthday and the occasion will be made one of honor to him.

Even the serious-minded war department was touched in his behalf by emotion such as it rarely shows. It was a special war department order that sent the colonel back from command of Fort Stanley, Texas to the seventh at Fort Bliss for the last week of his active service that he might round out his career with the regiment with which all but six years of his army life has been spent.

Colonel Tompkins commanded the seventh when it rode into Mexico with Pershing on Villa's trail. He received a silver star citation for his services then. During the war he led the seventh in its trying work along the border as back in 1900 he rode with it against the Sioux in the battle of Wounded Knee. There is no doubt where his heart is, for his preference cards at the war department indicating the type of duty he desires, call attention to his long service with the seventh and added:

"My preference is to serve with that regiment, wherever it is."

Tompkins still has the ruddy, slender look of the horseman of the plains. His hair is tinged with white now, but the flowing moustache that was the style among the old Indian scouts, cavalry officers and other cavaliers of the plains in the days when the west was in the winning, is still reddish.

SALAD SORCERY

Such a pretty witch! He is quite willing to be enchanted. He pretends it is a magic potion her white hands prepare for him, but it is really an extremely good French Dressing.

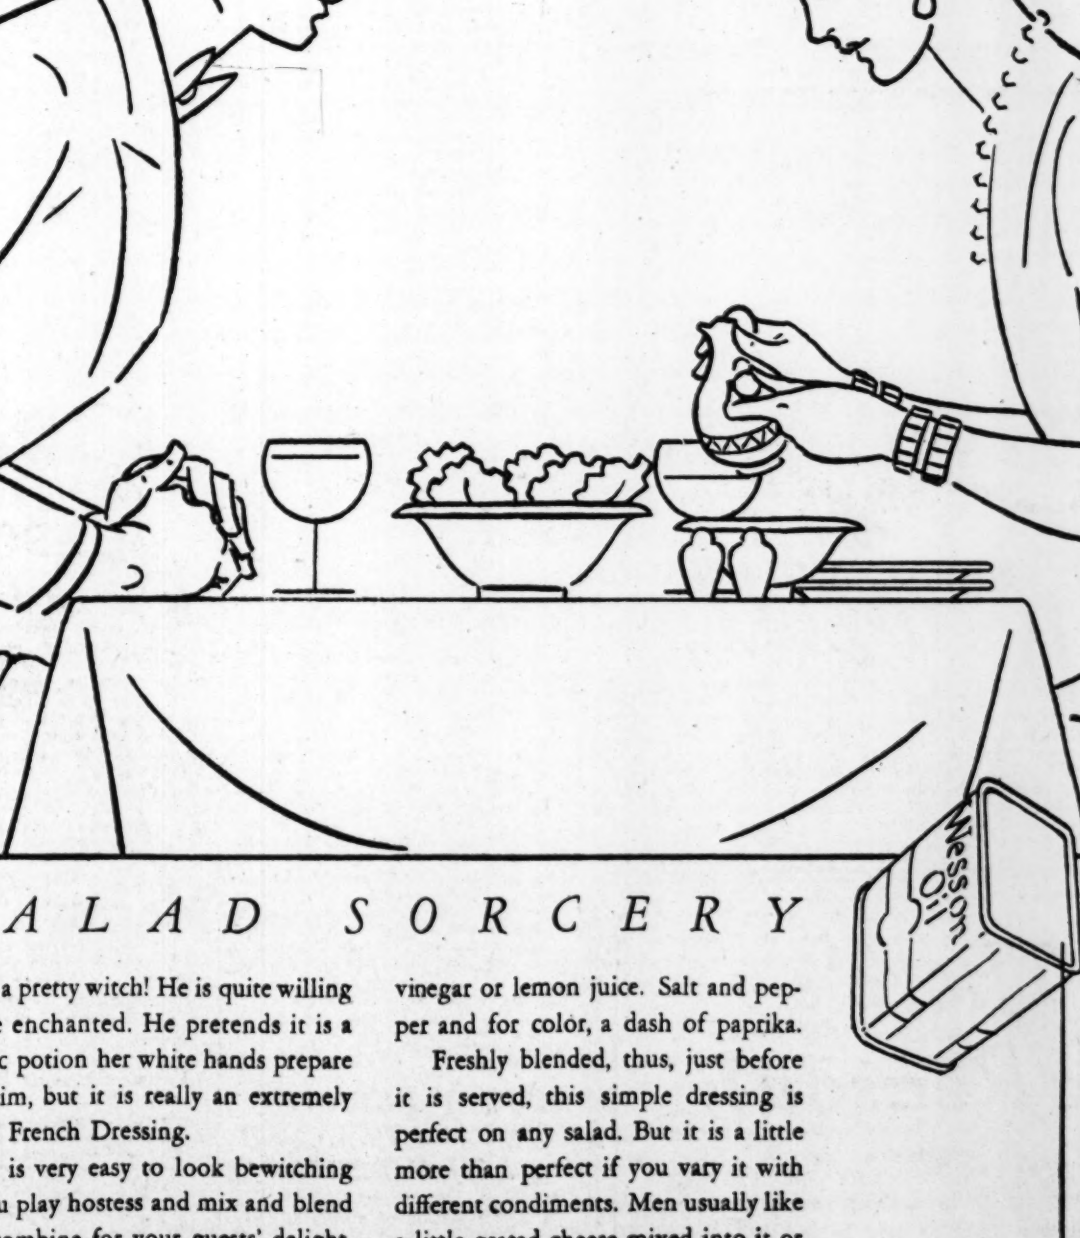

It is very easy to look bewitching as you play hostess and mix and blend and combine for your guests' delight.

That is probably one reason so many hostesses always dress their salad at the table. French Dressing, of course, and easily mixed.

Some like it mild . . . three parts of Wesson Oil to one of vinegar or lemon juice. Some like it tart . . . two parts of vinegar or lemon juice. It depends largely on the strength of the vinegar or lemon juice. Salt and pepper and for color, a dash of paprika.

Freshly blended, thus, just before it is served, this simple dressing is perfect on any salad. But it is a little more than perfect if you vary it with different condiments. Men usually like a little grated cheese mixed into it or Chili sauce—on green salads, or sometimes currant jelly on fruit salad perhaps or for fish or meat salads add a sweet pepper relish.

You must be very critical of your salad oil. Wesson Oil is such a choice oil that it is a highly nutritious food. And it is so delicate in flavor that it makes a perfect French Dressing.

BYRD'S POLAR PLANS ARE MADE

San Pedro, Calif., July 13.—(AP)—Plans for the departure from here, October 20, of Commander Richard E. Byrd's Antarctic expedition aboard the Norwegian whaling steamer, C. A. Larsen, were announced today with completion of the ship's itinerary.

The announcement was made by Captain G. M. Byrd, port captain of the Mexican Whaling company and agent for the C. A. Larsen.

The expedition, according to Byrd, will consist of 50 men, but only 15 of these will make the voyage aboard the whaler, the others will sail previously for Stewart Island, the base for the flight. The C. A. Larsen will load Byrd's three-engine Fokker monoplane, in which the flier will make the south pole flight, together with a smaller single-engine Fokker and several tons of equipment, at Norfolk, Va., September 16, when she will sail for this port.

Byrd's planes and supplies will be unloaded by the ship at Stewart Island and she will then proceed south to the Ross sea in the Antarctic, where she will begin her season's job of producing 50,000 barrels of whale oil from whales caught by her five small "killer ships."

While Byrd is on his hazardous flight, the C. A. Larsen, from her point 11 degrees from the pole, will maintain constant radio communication between the plane and the outside world. Byrd will be among the 15 to sail from here aboard the C. A. Larsen.

THREE ARE KILLED AS WOMAN DRIVES AUTO INTO OFFICE

Los Angeles, July 13.—(AP)—Three men were killed and four other persons, two men and two women, were injured, two seriously, when an automobile driven by Miss Betty Peck, of Los Angeles, crashed into a real estate office in the outskirts of the city early today.

Police reports said the car was traveling about 35 miles an hour when another car turned in suddenly from a side street, forcing Miss Peck to turn sharply aside. She evidently lost control of the machine and it crashed.

Two of the three dead were identified as Reuben Dietrich and Vedor Humes. Buster Myers, 15, and Miss Peck received fractured skulls while Normal Brill and Wilma Scheffer were severely bruised. All were residents of Los Angeles.

ELKS NAME MIAMI IN UPSET ELECTION

Cincinnati, Ohio, July 13.—(AP)—Miami, Fla., today snatched away from Los Angeles the 1928 annual convention of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks when a vote to reconsider selection of Los Angeles yesterday was carried at the annual convention here today.

Election of John F. Malley, Springfield, Mass., as grand exalted ruler was made unanimous on motion of Lee Merriwether, St. Louis, defeated for the honor.

The upset in the selection of convention cities was made suddenly and with disregard of all convention precedent.

Yesterday Los Angeles received the greatest number of votes, but did not get a majority. Miami, Fla., was named by a majority of the city having the smallest number of votes always gave its vote to the city having the greatest number in order to accumulate the necessary "majority of all votes cast" to determine the winner.

This year, however, Atlantic City, which received the smallest number, shifted its support to Miami, Fla., and when the ballots were cast again today the vote was Miami 510, Los Angeles 360.

Mr. Malley in an address today formally acknowledging his election as grand exalted ruler attacked "Atheism, bigotry, bolshevism, disrespect for law and order and arrogant interference with the liberties of the individual."

He called upon "all right minded citizens to combat these signs of present period of national life," and characterized the organizations he denounced as "un-American groups which appeal to the religious, sectional and racial prejudices of the people."

Injunction Asked In Pennsylvania To Expel Klan

Pittsburgh, July 13.—(AP)—The federal court here today was asked by five Pennsylvanians to issue a perpetual injunction to restrain the Ku Klux Klan from doing business in the commonwealth.

Answering a suit of the Klan filed against them recently, the five defendants also sought an order that the organization be required to make an accounting for all funds received in this state, and asked that a receiver be named.

Attorney Van A. Zarrickman, Pittsburgh; Dr. Charles F. Over, Wilkesburg; Dr. Charles S. Hunter, North Bessemer; the Rev. John F. Strayer, Latrobe; and William C. Davis, of Manor, named in the Klan suit, filed the answer today.

The Klan, on July 1, petitioned the court for an injunction to restrain them from using the name of the order in their activities and asked $100,000 damages, alleging that sum represented the amount the Klan lost when the five defendants caused many members to leave the order.

WOMAN, DOCTOR AWAIT TRIALS FOR MURDER

Franklin, La., July 13.—(AP)—A woman who wept for her children, a physician who spoke cheerily to his friends and a stranger who stoically denied knowledge of the crime with which he is charged tonight awaited their trial for the alleged murder of James J. Lehouef, husband of the woman.

The three, Mrs. Ada Lehouef, Dr. Thomas E. Dreher, her alleged lover, and James Beadle, were arraigned in open court today and pleaded not guilty to the charges. Motions to postpone the arraignment and set a later date than July 25 for the trial, made by their attorneys, were denied.

The meeting in the courtroom was their first since their arrest the day after the mutilated body of Lehouef was found on the edge of Lake Palourde, near Morgan City.

Officers Exonerated In Flogging Case By Baldwin Jury

Milledgeville, Ga., July 13.—(Special).—Expressing the desire to discover the identity of the persons who flogged a negro here on the night of June 27, the grand jury today made public a set of resolutions exonerating county officers whom rumors had connected with the lashing. The resolutions follow:

"We, the grand jury of Baldwin county, have made a thorough and searching investigation of the flogging of a man named 'Esie' Thomas, and we wish to go on record as completely exonerating J. T. Terry, our capable and efficient prohibition enforcement officer, of being in any way or manner connected with, or having any knowledge of this outrage. We also wish to go on record as exonerating every officer of either the county or the city of Milledgeville of being in any way connected with this whipping or of having any knowledge of it. We wish to further express our thanks to the officers and officials of the city of Milledgeville for the splendid manner in which they have cooperated with the sheriff's office of our county in the enforcement of the laws, and especially of the prohibition laws.

"We deplore the recent unfavorable advertisement of our county in the daily newspapers with reference to this occurrence and we here and now proclaim that Baldwin county people are law abiding, honest and upright, and that we believe that Baldwin county and the city of Milledgeville have at the present time a set of officers and officials that are conscientious in their conception of their official duties and that they are exercising every effort to enforce the laws of our state and county.

"With the assistance of the solicitor-general in the grand jury room, the larger part of three days has been devoted to thoroughly examining a number of witnesses. The members of the grand jury unanimously wish to let the world know that their county officers have faithfully cooperated with them in this examination."

(Signed), J. E. Kidd, Foreman.

New Marrying Parson Arrives At Gretna Green

Elkton, Md., July 13.—(AP)—Today marked the arrival of another "marrying parson" for this "Gretna Green," the third to attempt to gain the "business" of the Rev. Richard P. Westren, deposed holder of the office that is so important to the young couples who flock here to be wed.

The new arrival is the Rev. C. M. Cope, a Baptist minister, who said his last charge was in Raleigh, N. C. He left there 18 months ago and settled on a farm near Rising Sun.

Yesterday the jittery drivers, who are alleged to be aligned with the so-called "marriage trust" found themselves without a "marrying parson," the Rev. P. C. Hoffman, the last to hold fort here, left here Monday night.

Mr. Hoffman appeared after the Rev. Hiram McVey, retired Methodist minister, of Greenwood, Del., was ordered to leave town by the Methodist Episcopal church authorities. Certain technical charges were lodged against him by the church and he was suspended pending a hearing by the circuit court.

The same officials had a warrant sworn out for the Rev. Westren for performing marriages without authority. The hearing will be held shortly.

Mr. Westren was the "marrying parson" since January last.

Stranger Is Not Farmer's Slayer, Officers State

Rockville, Md., July 13.—(AP)—The mysterious stranger, found wandering in the woods near Colesville, Md., today was neither the slayer of Edward L. Mills, Rockville farmer, nor the "mad musician," sought by Washington police, Rockville authorities announced tonight.

"He is just a poor sick tramp," declared State's Attorney Robert P. Peter. The man said he was Frank Pollan, of Washington. Chief of Police Alva Moxley, however, said he would continue to hold him in the Rockville jail.

Clarence Miles, 20-year-old farm hand, the sole witness of the playing, said Pollan was not the murderer, while 11-year-old Doris Dobkins, of Washington, who was attacked by the alleged "mad musician," and her family did not identify him as her assailant.

The authorities believe their most important theory is that the slaying resulted from a quarrel over a woman and a moonshine whiskey deal and are working on this angle.

a Furnace on the Budget Plan

If it is not now financially convenient for you to install a New Improved Monchief Furnace, don't let that interfere. A small cash payment secures immediate installation and the balance may be taken care of on the budget plan.

Many home owners are taking advantage of this easy way to have their old, worn out and unsatisfactory furnaces replaced by the New Improved Monchief, and those who are now without furnace comfort, are putting in this fine heating system on the budget plan.

By installing a furnace in the summer before the fall and winter rush, there is plenty of time for the installation and it will be ready when the first cold weather comes. Then, too, Monchief's scientific method of installation makes it unnecessary to tear up floors or walls. There is no inconvenience.

"I have visited the cities listed above and ridden on their street railway systems. I am a daily passenger on the street cars in Atlanta. The best system I have ever seen is here in Atlanta."

Thus writes Mr. A. Woolfson, who gives his address as 1005 Wynne-Claughton Building.

Mr. Woolfson doesn't claim to be a transportation expert. His opinion is that of a street car rider, and, after all, it is the impression the street car service makes on those who patronize it that counts.

The opinion of experts, however, agrees with that of Mr. Woolfson. Those who are familiar with the transportation service given in other cities are generous in their praise of Atlanta's street cars, the men who operate them and the quality of service they give.

Because we believe that Atlanta's reputation for progressiveness is a true reflection of the spirit of the community, and because we believe that Atlanta wants not less than the BEST in transportation service, as in other things, we have endeavored to give the city street car service that is winning recognition as the—

Business Men Meet Today To Plan Local Campaign Of Georgia Association

Frank H. Neely, General Manager for Rich's, Lauds Accomplishments of Body With Small Funds.

On the heels of a declaration of Frank H. Neely, general manager of M. Rich & Bros. Co., that the accomplishments of the Georgia association, with limited funds, were "a complete surprise to him, arrangements were completed late Wednesday by association officials for a gathering of 25 leading Atlanta business men at 12:30 o'clock Thursday at the chamber of commerce to plan the city's major share in raising the $100,000 fund for national advertising and land settlement.

The meeting, which will be a luncheon given by H. M. Atkinson, general chairman, will determine on a chairman for the local campaign, two vice chairmen, an executive committee and the city's quota, and will plan all preliminary work for the actual money-raising movement which will take place later.

Green satisfaction with the progress achieved throughout the state was expressed by association officials. It was shown through records, correspondence, newspaper clippings and other direct evidence that the state was aroused to the need for work to reorganize agriculture, repopulate the 61,000 deserted farms and make cotton a genuine surplus crop, with emphasis upon live stock raising, self-sustaining farms and diversification.

It was shown that the association is in touch with hundreds of prospective Georgia settlers and that with the raising of the needed funds for carrying on the work many of these settlers, versed in the newer types of agriculture, could be brought to the state under the ready-to-go farm sale plan. Each such farmer, it was estimated, would be at least $5,000 value to the state in computing its resources.

"The leadership and management of the whole movement," declared Mr. Neely in his statement to 350 business men of the city, "is of such high type that field promotion and fund expenditures will be wise and economical."

Certainly a program designed to increase the per capita income of the Georgia farmer (75 per cent of our population)—from the low figure of $279 per year up nearer $800 per year, the national average—should receive our active and financial support. The secret of our trouble lies in the fact that Georgia stands forty-fifth among the states in per capita income.

"Notwithstanding the many other important and pressing duties in connection with the city bond commission and other civic enterprises in Atlanta, I have accepted a place on the budget and finance committee of the Georgia association because I believe their program is of vital importance to the business interests of Atlanta—and Georgia."

DUPREE TO HEAD ENTERTAINMENT BODY OF LEGION
Charles DuPree, new junior vice commander of Atlanta post of the American Legion, has been placed in general charge of legion entertainment activities, it was announced Wednesday by Frank Kempton, commander.

Amusement programs are to be presented at each weekly session of the post, held at 12:30 o'clock Friday afternoons at the Henry Grady hotel, Mr. DuPree stated. Professional entertainers from the theaters and the best local talent will be asked to volunteer their services.

The amusement programs are planned to stimulate larger attendance at the weekly meetings among the 1,325 members now enrolled in the post.

WOMAN IS TREATED FOR SCORPION BITE

COUNTY TO PUSH CITY HALL WORK

On the heels of announcements by city officials and the Atlanta bond commission that actual construction on several of the projects contemplated from funds voted in the $3,000,000 bond issue will begin shortly, Fulton county commission, Wednesday appointed a committee to expedite work on the new city hall.

Commissioners Walter Stewart and Charles Turner were selected to cooperate with a special city hall committee from city council and members of the bond commission to arrive at a fair valuation of certain property which the city must acquire to construct the new municipal building adjacent to Fulton county courthouse.

A joint meeting of the committees involved, will be held at 10 o'clock Saturday morning at the county commissioners' office at the courthouse and the matter will be discussed. Councilman Wylie Moore, of the seventh ward heads the councilmanic committee and Frank Neely, chairman of bond commission and members of the city hall contact committee from that body will attend the session.

Actual construction on several of the projects included in the first $1,000,000 of the $3,500,000 allocated for school purposes, will be begun as soon as necessary formalities have been met, according to Mr. Neely.

Work of lowering tracks of railroad which will be spanned by the Pryor street and Central avenue viaducts can be begun immediately after signatures of all parties concerned in the viaducts have been affixed to the revised plans, it was said. While detailed drawings are being completed, excavation work for depression of the tracks will be pushed and other preliminaries executed.

It will be about 18 months before sewer projects can be set in motion, William A. Hansell, chief of construction, said, because of the desire to lay improvements in accordance with maps now being made. He added that another $5,000,000 in addition to the $2,000,000 fund for sewers in the bond issue is needed to provide an adequate sewer system for Atlanta.

Execution of work under the bond issue will offer employment to hundreds of workmen and act as a general stimulus to business activity and construction in Atlanta and throughout the state, leaders asserted.

Feathered Clans Of Martin Flock On Annual Visit

The annual convention of the Martins opened in Atlanta Wednesday.

No convention bureau representative greeted them; they will not be accorded the key to the city.

Rather, residents in the vicinity of Washington and Ormond streets muttered imprecations, gnashed teeth and growled because the Martins family, as is its custom, selected that district in which to exult and scurry hither and yon passing the time of day.

The Martins are of the purple variety, migratory birds protected by federal law against molestation. Each year they gather in trees at Washington and Ormond—why, no one seems to know.

Chattering, screaming and flying to and fro madly, the birds annoy the residents, terminate many sound slumbers in wee small hours of the morning and generally make themselves nuisances. Hence the absence of a welcoming committee.

Last year police aid was requested. Stalwart plainclothesmen stalked the birds and, through the medium of heavy discharges of buckshot, dispatched many of the birds on the unknown journey. The wholesale bag was a huge success until federal authorities threatened action if the shooting was repeated.

Since the law was barred residents merely shrug shoulders, express chagrin and wait for the purple martins to adjourn and depart.

Demurrer Hearing Today in Athens In Insurance Case

Athens, Ga., July 13.—(AP)—Decision on the demurrer of John E. Tadmage, Hugh H. Gordon, Jr., and Congressman C. H. Brand to proceedings seeking to oust them as directors of the Southern Mutual fire insurance company here will be made tomorrow morning, Judge C. J. Perryman announced after hearing arguments of both sides.

The proceedings were brought by John White Morton and E. R. Hodgson, who were not re-elected at the annual meeting of the directors on June 7, to restore themselves and C. M. Snelling to the board, claiming that the election of the three new directors was illegal because a quorum was not present.

HIGH SCHOOL PROBLEMS DISCUSSED AT ATHENS

Athens, Ga., July 13.—(Special.)—Problems affecting the high schools of the state were discussed at today's session of the superintendents' conference, being held here at the University of Georgia. Dr. E. A. Pound, high school supervisor, presided.

Superintendent Norris, of Hart county, explained how it was possible for 500 high school pupils from the county to attend the county senior high school in Hartwell. This has been brought to pass by cooperation between the county and city systems and by limiting the 11 county schools to nine grades, he said.

Dr. Pound told of the growth of the state high school system, the present total of 349 accredited schools and paid a tribute to Dr. J. S. Stewart, professor of secondary education at the university.

Superintendent Roland Bower, of Decatur county, described the system of high schools in his county. He stated that only one course of study was permitted in the senior high schools of Decatur. He reported 13 white schools in the county. It is the practice of the county board to furnish four teachers for the grammar school departments if the attendance warranted that number, he stated.

Dr. Pound advocated the policy of not permitting grades above the seventh grade in the smaller schools, except where the school had 20 or more students in the higher grades. After a discussion of this question by many superintendents, Superintendent Bower advocated the setting up of some regulation by the state board of education in this connection.

Superintendent J. D. Underwood, of Hall county, reported on the condition of junior and senior high schools and inspection of work to maintain a standard. He also described the system of permanent records in Hall county.

E. B. Gresham, superintendent of Burke county schools, told how the high schools had been standardized by uniform course of study agreed on by the high school principals and the county superintendent. He also gave an account of the adaptation of vocational agriculture to the community needs of the several school districts. He reported that the Burke schools were getting away from the grade system and taking up the departmental plan of teaching.

Mrs. Helen Gurr, superintendent of Terrell county, told of the school problems in Terrell and of the way they were being met. She explained how the course of study was being adjusted to meet the situation in Terrell.

Dr. J. S. Stewart made a strong plea for a system of permanent records in high schools, the Thursday there will be a discussion of the qualifications of county superintendents and county board members. Vocational agriculture and home economics will also be discussed.

POLICE RAID HOUSE. FIND 40 GALLONS OF "CORN"; JAIL 2

Following receipt of a "neighborhood tip," a police raiding squad swooped down on a house at 370 Capitol avenue late Wednesday, arrested a man and woman and confiscated 40 gallons of liquor and a small roadster.

Violation of the liquor law was looked against Mrs. E. M. Henderson, 35, owner of the house, and a man giving his name as Roy Glazner, 22, of Asheville, N. C.

Arresting officers reported that they found Glazner pouring liquor into a bathtub. In the rear of the house, they said, they found the roadster loaded with 40 gallons of liquor.

NEGRO GIRL STRUCK BY RUNAWAY TRUCK

While its driver was delivering milk in a near-by house, a truck owned by the Dixie Dairy parked on a hill on Martin street near Richmond, broke loose from the brakes, rolled down hill and struck Mattie Ruth Hambrick, colored girl of 121 Richmond street, Wednesday, before J. A. Morgan, 24, the milk distributor, could overtake the vehicle and bring it to a stop.

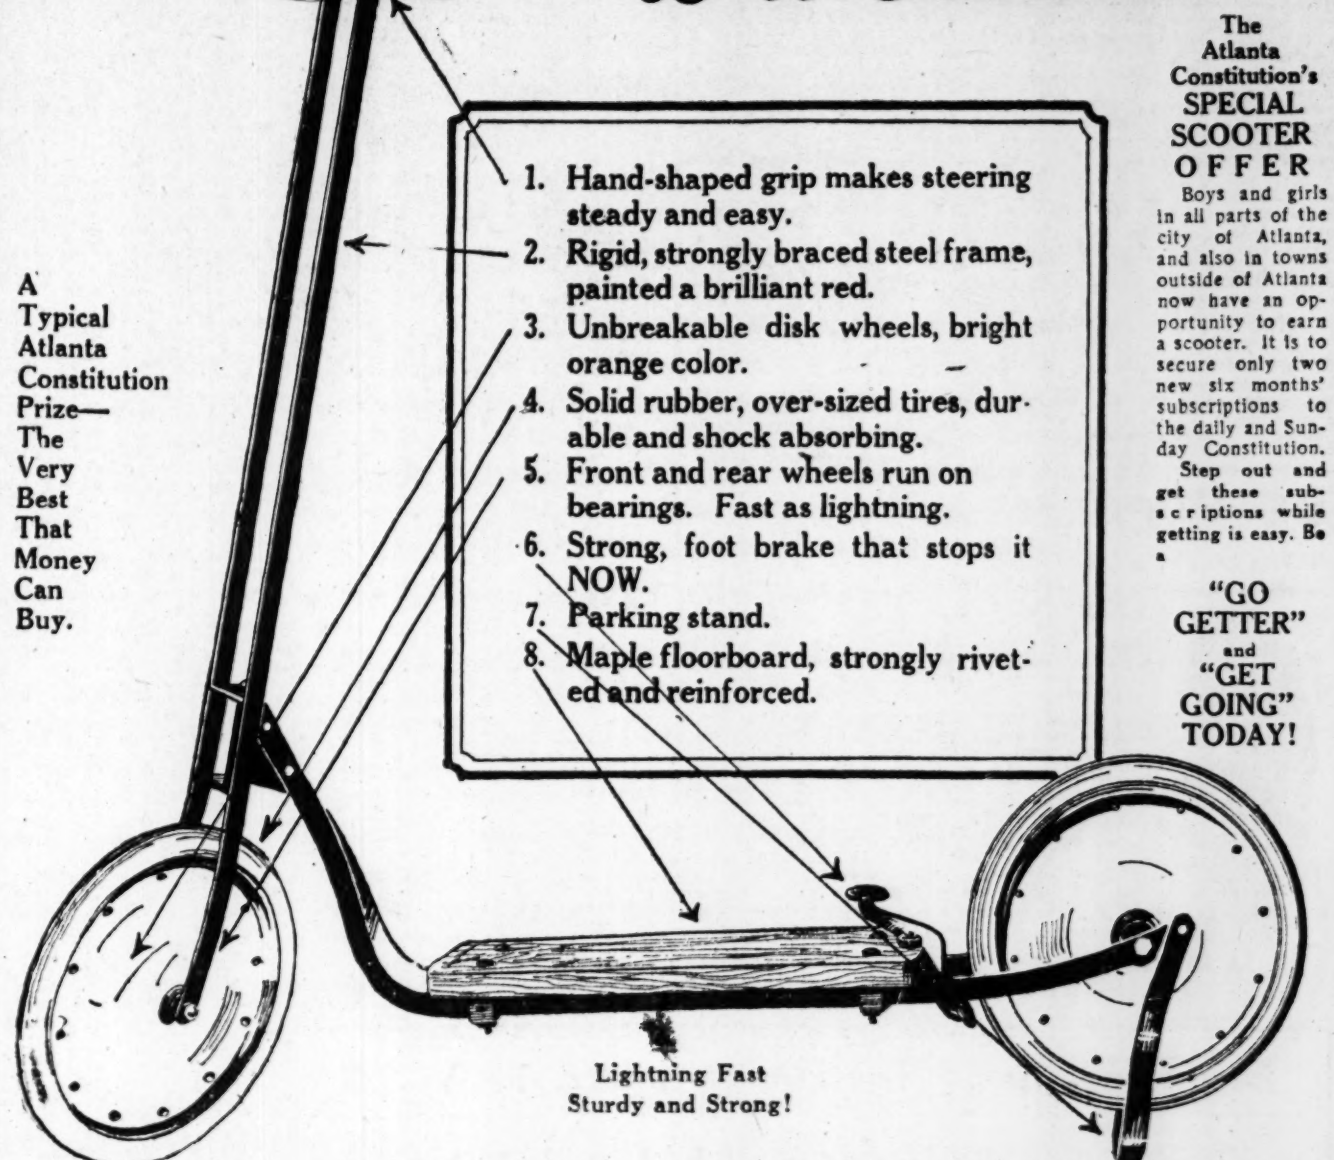

At Grady hospital, attaches stated the Hambrick girl was slightly injured. Spectators commented on Morgan for quick work in stopping the truck, which might have struck other children at play in the street.

Junior Chamber To Give Yearly Dance July 15

The sixth anniversary dance, the most elaborate ever attempted by members of the Atlanta Junior Chamber of Commerce, will be held Friday night, July 15, from 9 until 1 o'clock on the roof garden of the Atlanta Athletic club. It was announced by George Kasey, chairman of the dance committee.

The Atlanta Junior Chamber is one of the most active organizations of its kind in the southern states and during the past year has completed successfully three important movements. One of the undertakings was to obtain $50,000 from the city at large to match the county's appropriation to establish a psychopathic ward at Grady hospital. That was in 1925 and in the same year enough money was raised for a Georgia exhibit at the southern exposition held in New York.

In 1926 the Junior Chamber sponsored the Air Mail week and several other minor projects. During the spring of 1927 its members sponsored a southern open golf championship in which more than $12,000 in prizes were awarded.

Members of the local organization have assisted in the organization of junior chambers in Augusta, Ga.; Valdosta, Ga.; Abbeville, S. C.; Greenville, S. C.; Thomasville, Ga.; and Dalton, Ga.

Present officers of the Junior Chamber are: Dr. Herbert B. Kennedy, president; Frank A. Hooper, vice president; Frank Harrison, vice president; B. Baxter Maddox, vice president; George W. Suggs, vice president; J. H. Woody, treasurer; Mildred Barrett, secretary.

Directors are: John M. Slaton, Jr., Roy LeCraw, Roy Harwell, Emory Jenks, Edw. M. Robertson, C. F. Dieckman, K. O. Butler, Jr., Preston Wright, Jr., Pittsburgh Knox, Jr., Paul Bancroft, E. W. Gottenstrater.

Veterans of the world war who were members of the legion in 1926 and 1927 are eligible to go to France and other countries at special convention rates for themselves and members of their immediate family.

Reservations may be made at legion headquarters in the Palmer building, corner of Marietta and Forsyth streets.

BURGIN BILL BARS LOCAL MEASURES

Senator Joe S. Burgin, of the 24th district, introduced yesterday in the senate a constitutional amendment which will, if submitted and ratified, relieve the general assembly of local and special bills which now clutter the legislative machinery of the state. Senator Burgin is one of the strongest members of the senate and he will get actively behind his measure for which he has already received assurances of support from both houses.

The bill is in the nature of a constitutional amendment providing the usual method of being submitted to the people at the next regular election. The salient feature of the resolution is in its first section and is as follows: Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Georgia, and it is hereby enacted by authority of the same, that paragraph 16 of section 5, article 3 of the constitution of this state be, and the same is hereby repealed, and the following paragraph, to be known as paragraph 16, be inserted in said section of said article 3 of the constitution of this state, to read: No local or special bill shall be introduced into the general assembly, but the general assembly shall by general law prescribe how such local or special matters shall be handled in, for or by the several municipalities and political subdivisions of this state.

The measure was referred to the constitutional amendment committee of the senate.

Tech Hi Seniors Cover 2,800 Miles At Ha'penny Per

BY HERB MCUSKER.

Toppling all existing records at one fell swoop, the "Hot Dawg Travel Bureau," a Simon-Pure Atlanta "going" concern, completed its first round trip here Wednesday.

Members of the initial travel party journeyed to Wilkesbarre, Pa., and return in nine and one-half days by the clock, covering 2,800 miles for a total expenditure of $13 per person, or less than half a penny a mile.

Stopovers were permitted as members of the party desired; meals were caught now and then and bathing was indulged in as rivers and lakes afforded. A haystack accommodated the party members when rain fell suddenly one night.

The travel bureau officials are J. A. Ludl, 17, of 1446 LaFrance street, and Maxine Travel, 18, of 532 Cameron street. The passenger list of the first trip bore the same names and address.

The two youths, who will be seniors at Tech High school next semester, started their journey to Pennsylvania on June 21, using nature's vehicles. By having their respective teeth in enlisting smiles towards north-bound motorists, the youths managed to procure free rides frequently enough to negotiate the trip to Wilkesbarre in four days and some 'steen hours, according to their log.

Arriving at their destination, the students visited relatives and friends for three weeks before launching the homeward trip. A dearth of kindly inclined motorists, the youths estimated, required a half day more than was necessitated on the out trip and it was only by working their smiles overtime that they arrived here Wednesday, in the wake of the show.

"What I mean, we traveled light," Ludl informed The Constitution upon arrival. "We kicked in with a $1.37 per day and a half a cent per mile. The going wasn't quite as smooth as Pullman traveling but when I ate a meal there wasn't anything left for the kitchen cat to yowl about. What I mean, it was some trip."

STONE MOUNTAIN GRANITE MARKS CROCKETT HOME

Rogersville, Tenn., July 13.—(AP)—A great block of Stone Mountain granite, unveiled by hands of descendants of David Crockett, from Tennessee, Arkansas and South Dakota, today marked the site of the cabin in which the pioneer grandsons were massacred by Indians in 1777.

The incident, briefly mentioned by Crockett in his memoirs, has been confirmed through research of Mrs. Zella Armstrong, Chattanooga, and Mrs. J. Stewart French, Bristol.

Crockett's father, John, was living in his own home a few miles away at the time of the tragedy.

VETERAN MAIL PILOT SELECTED FOR ROME JUMP

New York, July 13.—(United News)—James Dewitt Hill, 42, veteran aviator pilot and aviator, has been named by Lloyd W. Bertand as his copilot in the Fokker monoplane, Old Glory, in which he will attempt a nonstop flight from New York to Rome, in August.

For the past three years Hill has been flying in the mail service between New York and Cleveland, the same route which Bertand has been covering. Hill, who entered aviation in 1912, has spent more than 5,000 hours in the air. In his 15 years of flying, he has made eight forced landings and never has resorted to a parachute.

Hill was educated at Lafayette college, Easton, Pa., and at Cornell university.

During the war he served as flying instructor at Hazelhurst (now Curtiss) field.

William Randolph Hearst is backing the flight.

MEMPHIS JOKERS SOUGHT IN FAKE FIRST AID CALLS

Memphis, July 13.—(AP)—A practical joker with a penchant for seeing shrieking ambulances dash through crowded streets will joke no more if police can lay hands on him.

During the last week police headquarters have received numerous telephone calls reporting accidents and listing the number of dead and injured. Three calls were received in one night and last night the mysterious "informant" reported that a large bus had overturned at a street intersection. Several ambulances sped to the scene, but all was serene upon their arrival.

FURNITURE MERGER TOTALS $4,500,000

Formation of the National Manufacturers and Stores corporation through the consolidation of the Fox Manufacturing company, Atlanta, with 18 retail furniture stores located in seven southern states, was announced here Wednesday by officials of the new corporation. The capital stock will be $4,500,000.

The consolidation was completed Wednesday at a conference of representatives of the various units of the new corporation which will be a holding company.

Alfred Fox, Atlanta, is president, and Lawrence Fox, secretary and treasurer, in charge of production and distribution.

The object of the merger was described by Mr. Fox as a move to effect "economies in the production and distribution of our products." It was stated that the furniture manufacturing plants would continue to be operated as the Fox Manufacturing company and that the various stores would undergo no apparent change but will function as individual plants under the supervision of the corporation's executives.

The stores are located in the following cities: Charlotte, Winston-Salem and Greensboro, N. C.; Charleston, Columbia and Spartanburg, S. C.; Savannah and Milledgeville, Ga.; Knoxville, Ala.; Chattanooga, Tenn.; New Orleans, La.; Houston, Beaumont and Fort Worth, Texas.

The Fox Manufacturing company is one of the oldest and largest institutions in the south devoted to the manufacture of furniture. The company was established in 1907 by Alfred and Lawrence Fox and E. H. Henshaw. It has grown from a small plant to three large units comprising about 300,000 square feet of floor space.

According to the executives of the National Manufacturers and Stores corporation, the capital stock will be $4,500,000, making it one of the largest corporations in the southern states. The plan of the corporation is to manufacture products which will not be confined to their own group of stores, but will continue to be distributed through leading retail establishments throughout the country as it has before.

RESCUE WORKERS PERSONNEL CHANGES

As a result of the recent visit here of James William Duffin from the Philadelphia headquarters of the American League Workers, an order was received in Atlanta Wednesday effecting the recommitment of Captain Louis A. Adjutant Charles Dennis, who also visited Atlanta, was ordered stationed in this city.

During the week-end visit here the organization official spoke at three appointments were announced, as was also a change in the procedure in the activities of the organization here.

REV. G. W. DAVIS CALLED TO PULPIT OF LOCAL CHURCH

Rev. George W. Davis, prominent minister of Pasadena, Calif., has accepted a call to the pulpit of the Atlanta Gospel tabernacle on Capitol avenue, and will leave here with his family on September 1 to assume his new duties. The call was extended to him four weeks ago, soon after he had conducted a series of successful meetings here, and is understood to have been entirely unanimous.

GEORGIA AND EDUCATION.

Elsewhere on this page is a review of the remarkably comprehensive and illuminating address made recently by Chancellor Snelling, of the University of Georgia, before the joint assembly, on educational affairs, particularly as related to the higher institutions grouped in the university system.

It makes, or should make, every Georgian bow the head in shame to realize that this once great empire state of the south ranks the 42nd state in the union—only six up from the bottom—in the percentage of taxes, state, county and local, that goes to education.

Georgia ranks 35th in white inhabitant per capita expenditures for colleges, and 35th in the value of college properties.

Georgia is a rich state—rich in resources, in natural wealth, in state-owned properties, in good citizenry, in priceless youth.

It is unthinkable that such a state should trail in educational facilities for developing her boys and girls into their rightful spheres of usefulness.

The history of the University of Georgia is closely linked with the history of the state. It is one of the older institutions of the country, and from its class rooms have gone many of the most notable figures in a nation's history.

But the state does not support it. It forces it to literally stand upon the street corner like a mendicant and beg for funds to keep open its doors.

It forces it to charge high, and in many instances prohibitive, tuition fees for maintenance.

It forces a great majority of the students to seek board and rooms outside of the campus, out in the city, because of the lack of dormitory rooms—thus breaking the chain that should hold every link together in the university center for the best training and disciplinary results.

Of all the 40 state universities in America the University of Georgia, in equipment and maintenance, is practically at the bottom.

With 1,700 students it is operating with equipment provided a half century ago for less than one-third that number.

The University of Georgia and the Agricultural college together get a maintenance of only $250,000, whereas Clemson college in South Carolina—the agricultural college of that state—gets for maintenance alone almost double that amount.

In the ten years ending in 1925 the 40 state universities expended $68,000,000 for new buildings, or an average of $1,700,000 each.

Included in this total was only $10,000 for the University of Georgia.

Think of it! The shame of it! Great benefactors like the late Senator Joseph E. Brown, the late E. T. Comer, and the late Mrs. Hunt, of Gainesville, left large foundations, the proceeds from which are loaned to worthy young men to pay their expenses through the university—acts of commendable generosity to promote the education and the many usefulness of poor but deserving boys.

But not one penny can be used for the maintenance of the university, although from these foundations the student enrollment is increased approximately 200 each year—an added challenge to the institution to provide for them. It is a more pathetic challenge to the state.

The state of Georgia cannot afford to continue its niggardly policy toward education, and toward the coordinated system of higher education.

The general assembly is on trial in this matter. A whole nation is watching.

The best fireless cooker on the market is your wife.

If Lindbergh attacked all the deers that have been conferred on him to his name it would sound like a riveting machine working on a night shift.

AS TO LOCAL BILLS.

Senator Burgin, of the twenty-fourth district, introduced a constitutional amendment measure Wednesday that will, if submitted and ratified, cure a serious obstruction to legislative efficiency and save the state a large sum of money each assembly year, not only in the conservation of legislative time that could and should be employed in dealing with the general issues and problems of state, but also in the compiling and printing of the acts.

It provides simply that no local or special bill shall be introduced in the general assembly, but that the assembly shall, by a general law, prescribe how such local or special matters shall be handled, "in, for or by the several municipalities and political subdivisions of the state."

Anyone who gives the matter analytical thought will see the importance of enacting such an amendment.

Local bills have the consideration only of the one or more representatives of the counties from which they originate and of the senators of the districts in which such counties belong.

At most not more than four members of the general assembly are in the slightest degree interested in any local measure. In most instances only two members of the general assembly are interested.

A local measure is introduced by a county representative or delegation. It has the sanction of the senator. It is passed without the other 250 or more members of the two houses combined having the slightest knowledge or concern regarding it.

The practice encumbers the assembly. It takes valuable time. It costs large sums of money. It encumbers the printed acts.

The practice of enacting local measures purely upon the representation of the local delegation, without the restrictions and guidance of a general law, is neither democratic nor representative.

It is the function of the assembly to restrict, safeguard and prescribe by a general law, and then to check the function of some local legal agency, as, perhaps, the board of commissioners or the grand jury, to enact such purely local measures. Certainly such a local legalized agency is more acquainted with the merits of purely local matters than a state assembly that gives to them no consideration whatsoever.

The Georgia assembly made an encouraging and helpful start along this line some years ago when it relieved itself of the granting of charters for railroads and banks and vested that authority with other state agencies under a general law which it passed prescribing conditions and restrictions.

It relieved itself not only of a time-killing burden, but saved the state a great deal of money annually and simplified and expedited charter issuances without surrendering any safeguarding restrictions.

It should now take a similar course with regard to local bills.

THE IMMORTAL "PINAFORE."

The Municipal Opera association has not presented a more delightfully entertaining production this season than Gilbert and Sullivan's immortal "Pinafore."

That is saying a great deal for the opening performance there has not been a dull moment at the Erlanger. Every offering has pleased.

But there is something about "Pinafore" that is different, and impelling. Certainly no comic opera ever radiated jollier or more tuneful music, nor catchier ensembles, nor more mythical satire.

Though old it is fresh. One may see it time and time again and enjoy its every performance. It is refreshing and clean.

There are thousands of people in Atlanta—those of the younger generations particularly—who have perhaps never seen "Pinafore."

Then it will be losing a genuine opportunity and privilege not to see it this week. It is being presented by excellent artists, and on no stage in the south has this famous old production ever been presented more ably or to better advantage.

WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

French View On Israel.

"A miracle has taken place," writes Pierre in Mazieres, French journalist, in his new book on Palestine. Mazieres has already a certain reputation in official circles for his reasonable journey of observation in the Near East. "When Israel took contact with the old Biblical soil," he writes, "he recovered his ancient national and pastoral qualities. With a determination of which nobody judged him capable, he has attacked these marshes and these plains. From the borders of the Mediterranean to the Jordan, from Esdraelon to the Dead Sea, he has created pastures, forests, vineyards, orange groves and wheat lands. To those who judge him incapable of becoming a man of the soil, he has given a decisive answer. In Palestine the Jew is back on the land."

It is a magnificent achievement. But he falls into an inexplicable error when he writes that "the ardent Jewish nationalists are armed... and ready to start a war against the Muslims."

This thought is just about the furthest away from the "Neo-Palestinians" at the present time.

In Dark Africa.

Civic Progress, a weekly Paris review, has caused a sensation with the publication of details on the manner in which the African battalions are handled. The so-called African battalions are really punitive units to which soldiers are sent who have infringed some military law. To judge by the revelations of Civic Progress, life in the camps is plainly hell on earth. Men are chained to their boxes for days at the time, while their food is passed through an aperture. The least infringement of the rules brings the soldier to the stocks and starving for 10 days. After that some soup is given. But this soup is especially salted, so that the man who receives it becomes extraordinarily thirsty. However, he is locked in his box and no drink is vouchsafed him. This is only the least of the charges leveled against the authorities by Civic Progress. Most of the information is unprintable in English and falls into the class of those situations depicted in "Batonoua," the sensational book of colonial morals published last year.

Lindbergh's Father.

A great deal has been written about Charles Lindbergh and his heroic exploit. A great deal has been said about his mother also. Little was heard about Lindbergh's father. Yet a German paper remarks that the elder Lindbergh must be ranked as a heroic figure, "in spite of the fact that he was a newspaper writer, to ignore his heroic stand in the defense of his son during the war." "During the war," so adds Weltbuehne, "Lindbergh's father was one of the few who opposed the senseless massacre of Jews. For that he was called a pro-German traitor. Millions of dollars were spent to defeat his campaign as candidate for the governorship of Minnesota. For long years he was persecuted. He was often jeered at as the son of a traitor to his country. Both father and son had courage. America might well recognize the elder Lindbergh's moral heroism," says the German paper.

Former Senator Urges State Sales Tax.

Editor The Constitution: The old sales tax system is antiquated for state purposes, and it is believed that if the proper thought is given to a "sales tax" system, similar to what is in use in the United States, it would prove to be what we need to furnish funds for schools, state purposes and other needs. In fact, it would know what to do with it.

My bills were skeletal in nature and merely introduced for thought for the future use. I believe that if the governor would appoint a commission of three or four members, they could work out just what is needed in a tax system for the state of Georgia to supply the revenue necessary.

Times have changed. The country districts and country towns are no more. The population is concentrated in cities. The public has no desire to buy real estate or any visible property, and for these reasons all taxation in the future must come from the sale of goods and services.

All taxes would be modest and in assessment, but would bring in for the state of Georgia from twenty-five to thirty million dollars.

It is a matter of one million on manufacturers, wholesale transactions, stocks and bonds; and a tax of two and one-half cents on retail trade, being levied on the nature. Just think how easy and how cheap—one mill being only 10 cents on a $100 transaction at wholesale, and one-half mill being only 5 cents on a $100 transaction at retail.

New York, July 13.—(United News.)—Colonel Lytton Gray, New York has been appointed general manager of the Morning Telegraph, New York's morning newspaper specializing in news of the drama, sports, society and night life, according to a dispatch in Thursday morning's edition.

Colonel Gray is the husband of the former Mrs. Edward Russell Thomas, who took charge of the paper upon the death of her former husband. She was the first woman publisher of a metropolitan newspaper.

Chancellor Snelling's Assembly Address; What Will Georgia Do With Education?

BY JAMES A. HOLLOMON.

The recent address by Chancellor C. M. Snelling, of the University of Georgia, delivered before the general assembly in joint session, ought to impress every member with the imperative importance of an educational expansion program that will place this state in line with other states of the southeast.

It is certainly the assembly should do no less.

It is unthinkable that it will permit the state to be longer advertised to the world as being so indifferent to the education of its boys and girls, from grammar school on up through a finishing institution, that it stands practically at the bottom of the list of all the states in the union in educational support.

As I listened to Chancellor Snelling read his carefully-prepared, thoughtful and learned paper, I could not help at times but bow my head, both in sorrow and in shame—realizing as I do the value of a state's investment in the proper training of her youth—at the poor, almost disgraceful showing that Georgia makes in comparison with other states, and neighboring states at that.

Because of the inavailability at the time of copies of the chancellor's address it was not published in full, nor was due publicity given to it.

Since that time the address has been reduced to pamphlet, and the members of the assembly have been supplied with copies.

The public, however—the more than 3,000,000 people whose children must carry on this great commonwealth in the future—deserve to know the facts as related by the chancellor, and it is my purpose here to give some of the high points for the public's benefit, with the earnest hope that an aroused conscience and an interest in the youth of Georgia may impel the public to help the assembly reach a fitting solution to this great problem.

From here on therefore I shall write largely in the language of Chancellor Snelling.

Popular Education.

To realize their dream of freedom, our fathers brought into being great experiments in democratic government. Almost to a man the leaders among them were educated. Those men knew that only educated people could be free; and, more, they knew that democratic government could not endure unless the people were educated. So they began to make provision for education. In some states education progressed rapidly; in some not so. But the need for education was nowhere better understood or more planned for than here in Georgia. Unfortunately, social and economic conditions developed which later and later have retarded the progress of that they did not seem to realize the neglect of education.

Since all real values, material, social and spiritual, are dependent on government, and since the ideal of our fathers and of ourselves—democratic government—is impossible without education, it is the interest of the government as well as of the individual that all the people should be educated—that education should be universal. So it is that in the United States education has become a national passion.

In the elementary schools of the country more than 25,000,000 children are enrolled, while there are 3,500,000 in the high schools, and 700,000 in the colleges. There are more students in the colleges at the present time than there were twenty years ago. In the past ten years college attendance has more than doubled. In the past five years more than 425,000 students have been enrolled in the colleges; during the session just closed there were around 1,700.

All of Georgia's schools and colleges have had a share in this increase; not only so, but we are making progress in improving facilities for elementary and high school education. One has only to go about in the state and see the substantial and modern school buildings that dot the land. Within the past five years Georgia has quadrupled her high schools while the rest of the country were being doubled.

And yet, in spite of this, the records show that last year, taking elementary schools and high schools, the rest of the country was turning out two in proportion to population for every one that Georgia graduated.

The enormous demands. When the department of secondary education was established in the university twenty years ago, there were fewer than 5,000 pupils in the high schools of the state. Today the enrollment in these institutions exceeds 75,000.

This year 8,782 young people graduated from accredited white high schools, and 739 from accredited negro schools.

During the past 15 years the number of graduates from accredited high schools in Georgia has doubled every five years.

But a few years ago the goal in education was to have every child capable of taking it should have a common school education.

Now the time is at hand when the goal is to have every child capable of taking it should have a high school education.

The problem confronting the colleges of the state as a result of this situation is apparent to even the casual observer.

The enormous increase in college and normal school enrollment within the past two decades is due not to any sort of propaganda issuing from these institutions, but to the increased value that higher education has come to take in the minds of the people.

If, therefore, the state supported colleges and normal schools are pleading for buildings, equipment and maintenance, it is because of the enormous increase in the number of first year students or freshmen in colleges produces a serious situation in these institutions.

In this connection Chancellor Snelling declared there is a place in our system of education for the junior college, saying it constitutes the cost of high education in the first two years, and make practical the closer supervision of younger students.

Now listen to Chancellor Snelling speak of the university proper: "I am humiliated to tell you that of all the American states, Georgia, the University of Georgia in equipment and maintenance must be placed near the bottom of the list."

Health Talks

BY DR. WILLIAM BRADY

IODIN IN THE WATER.

Dr. George W. Goler, famous health officer of Rochester, N. Y., was the first health authority to propose and put into effect the iodization of a public water supply for the prevention of "simple goiter." The iodization of the municipal water was begun in Rochester in 1923, and has been regularly done twice a year since then. At present the Rochester health leader makes 21 applications of sodium iodide twice a year, each of 16.6 pounds of sodium iodide, in May-June and again in October-November. In the first week the sodium iodide is added daily, thereafter every other day until 21 applications have been made. Thus a concentration of from 14 to 28 parts of iodine per billion is obtained in the water, and this is even for all parts of the city. Estimating from the population of Rochester and the quantity of water the average person drinks, this would give each person slightly over three milligrams of iodine in the course of a year. Authorities agree that this quantity of iodine is well within the normal or natural iodine ration that is essential for health, not to mention the prevention of goiter.

When they started iodization of the Rochester water supply there were 84,400 children in the city with goiter. In Rochester the water supply is iodized. In Rochester the water supply is iodized. In Rochester the water supply is iodized.

All kinds of objections have been raised to the custom of adding iodine to the public water supply, and some of them are sound enough.

One objection is that the drinking of the iodized water may be harmful to persons who already have goiter.

Notwithstanding the fancied effect on the taste of the water this iodization of drinking water positively does not alter the taste. People often imagine they taste iodine in drinking water when or where no iodine is ever used.

Of course only a small proportion of the public water supply is used for drinking. All of the water used for bathing, laundry, sprinkling lawns or gardens, is wasted, or rather the iodine is in it, but it is not for human consumption. The iodine in this water serves a good purpose in plant and animal life.

Think of it—a great state like Georgia closing its doors to poor and worthy boys who cannot enter for lack of the high school or college fees. Who can complain of such expense? Sodium iodide costs $4.30 a pound delivered in Rochester.

One busy propagandist broadcasts the history of the iodine problem, the undesirable chemical reaction between iodine and chlorine in natural water disinfectant by chlorine. It is not these free the iodine and so it may combine with organic matter in the water and lose some of its prophylactic value, but this is nothing to hold back the iodization of the water supply.

Other towns and cities are now iodizing the public water supply or considering the advisability of adopting the practice. It would seem an excellent practice for most communities.

FLIGHTING THE SOLONS

BY SAM W. SMALL

Important Proposals That Carry Merits and That Should Be Enacted.

It was generally agreed yesterday in both chambers that the speech made by Senator Reed on Tuesday was a very able and instructive one. His art and ability as a magnetic orator was freely conceded. But there were not lacking marked dissents from some of his doctrines. As one member put it: "What Reed said was good democracy in the days of Jefferson and Jackson, but the democrats of this day are more practical. We are go-getters and not idealists." Which about tells the true story.

The bill to amend the marriage law so as to allow men and women of full age to be married without being previously put in the public stocks for five days will probably pass the house as it did the senate, and as it should. The people of this country are even now threatened with a uniform marriage law by divorce law by congress, divesting the states of a right they have held since they were organized. Just such hold-up laws on grown-up people as the live-day bans law there in Georgia will be powerful arguments in favor of a federal regulatory law—a law that will allow interlary marriages in spite of our state prohibitions.

It is to be hoped that there will be no slump of the effort to enact a Baumes law for this state, with the improvement of providing a parole or pardon, on a third conviction for a felony. The fellow who commits a third felony in this state has accumulated "the habit" and ought to be put where he can never again indulge in it to the cost and privilege of the public. Such a law in Georgia will tend to reduce felony crimes by a large percentage, as it has done already in New York. As Professor Pound, of Harvard law school, says: "The time is coming to curb our ancient and inherited maudlin sympathy for professional criminals."

It was learned at the capitol yesterday that three of the exceedingly rare signatures of Rutledge Gwinnett, Georgia signer of the Declaration of Independence, have been discovered at Waverhampton Blue Coat Charity school. Before he emigrated to Savannah Gwinnett was a merchant in Waverhampton and signed the school register as a contributor to its funds in 1761. The three signatures have been bought by Gabriel Wells, a New York bookseller. The sale of a Gwinnett autograph was for $28,500.

The effort of the Lowndes delegates in the house to have the state's pledge of half its revenues to the schools fully complied with, will receive cordial approval by a million parents in the state. There are counties in Georgia that did not open their schools at all last term for lack of money and many others where the bare-footed youngsters got only three months' schooling instead of nine. We have a high school in every county in Georgia that cannot educate their children and couldn't have a school in the general assembly if the state didn't have the money to keep it. The Lord knows Georgia isn't worth preserving if she insists on this.

Something New In Laxatives

This new preparation acts with time-clock precision in 60 to 90 minutes; gives one thorough elimination and no more; does not interfere with dates, habits or diet, and guaranteed to remove, in one action, more poison bile from the system than any other known formula, leaving you buoyant, vigorous and alert, mentally and physically.

These are but a few of the many wonderful advantages of this latest discovery known as "Alertox," which flushes the alimentary tract and re-establishes a natural, healthy liver and bowel action, and is much quicker, more palatable and far more effective than calomel, oils or other nauseating cathartics that merely clog the liver and work you to death.

Alertox also alkalizes the system and thoroughly cleanses it of the poisons that cause auto-intoxication. Get a bottle from your druggist, and if you are not satisfied after taking one dose, get your money back. If your druggist cannot supply Alertox, send direct upon receipt of price, 50c. Atlanta Weather To Remain Cool, Says Forecaster

Weather throughout the United States Wednesday attested to the slogan, "It's great to be a Georgian," when the forecaster revealed that 15 deaths were attributed to excessive heat throughout the north while Georgians, especially Atlantans, were enjoying comparatively pleasant weather. Continued cool weather is scheduled for the rest of the week in Atlanta today. C. F. von Herrmann, government meteorologist, stated Wednesday night. The temperatures today are expected to range between 68 and 82-2 degrees higher and 1 degree lower, respectively, than was the extreme change Wednesday, when the low was 66 degrees and the high 82.

The forecast for today reads: "Continued unsettled weather, with showers in the afternoon." These showers are local in nature, Mr. von Herrmann said, although other showers are prevalent elsewhere in the state. Wednesday's registration of precipitation was .65 of an inch.

The total rainfall of the present month is somewhat lower than normal, the weather official stated. July, peculiar to frequent showers, but volume this year has fallen slightly below normal. The total Wednesday was one-fourth of an inch below normal.

Despite the fact that Wednesday's storm was of short duration, streets in several sections of the city were flooded temporarily. On DeKalb avenue at Elmira water poured over the curbs and in several low sections did small damage to gardens and houses. Traffic was tied up for an hour, it was reported.

Lightning was reported to have shocked three negro women, two at 27 Griffin street, and one at 1615 W. Peachtree street. No injuries were reported.

Another flare of protest to widening Whitehall street by taking five feet of sidewalk area from each side of the street was seen Wednesday following a meeting of owners in the section involved. The proposal is to increase the width of the traffic artery from Windsor street to Stewart avenue.

A counter-proposal would take 20 feet from the east side of the street and provide that property owners on the west side reimburse property owners on the east side for the extra feet. It was pointed out that unless street car tracks were moved traffic congestion on the west side of the street would not be relieved in the slightest by the counter plan.

Fulton county commission already has agreed to bear the expense of widening the street along the first plan. That of taking five feet of sidewalk from each side of the street, and many of the property owners contend that this should be pushed to completion before the city would be relieved in the slightest by the counter plan.

A five-foot sidewalk would be left on either side of the street under this plan, and they could be widened at a later date. It was pointed out that the city would be relieved in the slightest by the counter plan.

HOMPSON BILL SEEN FAVORABLY

Action was deferred Wednesday night by committees from senate and house which met jointly on the Thompson highway bill. The measure's objective is road building for and by the state in lieu of the present localized county method.

The proposition encountered no direct opposition, although a brisk discussion involved several of its provisions. "Outstanding among these was a clause setting payment of the state debt to counties to follow completion of primary highways, 2,800 miles of which will be designated. Methods of designating the first and secondary highways also came in for considerable comment."

When minor revisions are worked out, the bill will be returned favorably to both houses, it was predicted by leaders of both branches.

After an hour in joint discussion, during which a five-minute limit was invoked, the highway committees went into separate executive sessions. The senate committee adjourned until its chairman should call another meeting, probably this afternoon; while the house committee referred the bill to a subcommittee of five with the understanding that it will draft minor amendments.

Two points were agreed upon: That the present state system of road building is haphazard and unproductive of results, demanding revision; and that no better vehicle than Senator Thompson's bill has been advanced for this purpose.

It was brought out at the meeting that, under the county method of paying along primary highways, only 55 miles of paving was laid during 1936.

Against this Senator Thompson's bill fixes a yearly goal of 300 miles of paving along primary highways, with provision made to grade and improve secondary highways until such time as they can be paved.

As proposed, the bill would provide for construction of trunk lines across the state through rich and poor counties alike and independent of county aid.

WASHINGTON GETTING READY TO GREET AGES.

WASHINGTON, July 13.—(AP)—The capital is getting ready to welcome the heroes of three ocean flights—those of Commander Byrd, Lieutenant Maitland and the army pilot destined to stop off there en route to Washington, where the flyers will report to the war department.

Dayton, Ohio, Lieutenant Hegenberger's home, has urged that the flyers be the guests of honor at a public reception. The mayor of Dayton, Ohio, has urged that the flyers be the guests of honor at a public reception.

Some of the French correspondents at the conference, Mr. Bridgman also suggested the session arranged for Monday. This was cancelled, and to the delight of everyone in Geneva.

Mr. Gibson, who has been reserved and cautious throughout his conference with newspapermen and a declined to be drawn into criticism of proposals made either by the British or Japanese, observed this same caution at today's meeting with the press.

Some of the French correspondents sought Mr. Gibson's opinion as to whether tomorrow's plenary session should be interpreted as signaling a new turn in the negotiations.

Giving some of his hearers the impression that he was not sure about tomorrow's developments, the American chief delegate answered that he preferred not to interpret until he saw what was said tomorrow.

Mr. Gibson denied categorically that the American delegation ever demanded treaty authority to possess five 10,000-ton cruisers. This statement was in response to a request that he confirm or repudiate a report emanating from some circles in Geneva that such a demand was impending.

A confession of inability to predict a date for the treaty was made by Mr. Gibson when asked:

"We would give a large prize to anybody who could tell when it will come to an end."

Many naval experts at the conference are indignant over reports that they are struggling for inadequately large navies. In this connection the American position is said to be one of genuine repugnance to programs for expansion.

The belief is expressed that even if numerous warships were constructed there would be the greatest difficulty in inducing congress to maintain a fleet of such magnitude at a considerable expense alone in paying personnel. The experts say it is likely that unnecessary cruisers would eventually be tied up at the docks just as numerous destroyers built during the 1917 wartime rush are tied up at present and suffering deterioration.

In American headquarters there is a persistent hope that the British will eventually reduce their cruiser fleet.

Indorsing the garnishment modification measure introduced in the state legislature by Representative Still, of Fulton county, and also the anti-shark bills submitted by the same author, the Atlanta Federation of Trades, at its semi-monthly meeting Wednesday night urged the general assembly to enact these remedial measures for the relief of wage-earners.

The federation also called attention to the fact that work on the various municipal bond projects is being delayed by the substitution of the new city hall at the earliest possible date.

Beginning of the bond project construction would relieve the unemployment situation to a marked degree, it was declared.

Leviathan Captain Mistakes Byrd for Mate—Apologizes

S. S. Leviathan, July 13.—(AP)—Captain Hartley, of the Leviathan disclosed today that he "gave orders" last night to an individual of the United States navy who bears the name of Richard Byrd and whose title is commander—but Captain Hartley did not know that he was giving orders to Commander Byrd when he did it.

Byrd, taking a late stroll on deck before going to bed, wandered up to the bridge to tell Hartley good night. It was dark night, and the captain of the Leviathan did not expect a visit of the young aviator was a ship's officer, and commanded: "Tell that boy not to make a noise swabbing the promenade over Byrd's suite, so that Byrd and his companions can get a good night's rest."

Byrd quickly caught the situation, and stood at attention, as Captain Hartley scarcely looked at him, and responded: "Aye, aye, sir," then turned as if to execute the order, but added an unexpected "Good night, Captain Hartley."

This caused Hartley to recognize his error and offer explanations. "The uniform of our fellows do look the same in the dark," he said.

The commander of the America patiently submitted to autograph hunters, who brought him the passenger list for his signature. He then ventured on his first daylight promenade deck stroll this afternoon. Later he posed for the movies on the bridge with his companions and Clarence D. Chamberlin, and finally all of them were joined by Thea Rasche, the noted German woman flyer, whose introduction to the American heroes thus was recorded by the camera as Captain Hartley introduced them.

HONOLULU CONQUERORS GOING TO MILWAUKEE.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 13.—(AP)—Lieutenants Lester J. Maitland and Albert Hegenberger, Honolulu flyers, yesterday endeavored to make arrangements for transportation to Milwaukee, Wis., Monday morning to attend the public reception there that day and proceed directly to Washington.

Milwaukee is Lieutenant Maitland's home city and the army pilot desires to stop off there en route to Washington, where the flyers will report to the war department.

Bobby Jones 68 To Lead British Open

Sparkling Work Done On Putting Greens

First Time in Career He Has Lead Field in Opening Round—Nettleton Is Runner-up With 71.

St. Andrews, Scotland, July 13.—(AP)—"Calamity Jane," Bobby Jones' famous putter, or her sister, was a magic wand on the vast greens of St. Andrews today, enabling the American holder of the British title to leap out in front of a big field of 68 to start defense of his open championship. The record equalling round on the classic course gave Bobby a lead of three strokes at the end of the first phase of the 72 holes of medal play.

Eighteen holes will be played tomorrow with a final 36 to decide the issue Friday. All of the players in today's competition, however, will not have a part in the play of Friday for the field will be reduced by elimination of all 15 strokes or more behind the leader after tomorrow's round. An other sensational card by Jones tomorrow would make the list of casualties large and leave a small field of bitter-enders.

Len Nettleton, young Australian amateur champion, a left-handed putter, clubbed his way into an impressive 71 to take the runner-up position at the end of the day.

Joe Kirkwood, Australian pro who has gained fame as a trick shot, playing as a resident of Albany, Ga., turned in a score of 72. He found himself tied with five British entrants.

Jim Barnes, 76, Five other Americans were in the late 70's with John G. Anderson, of Mamaroneck, N. Y., out of the charm circle with an 83, suffered in spite of some first class putting.

Harnes, of New Rochelle, N. Y., and Tom Stevens, of Los Angeles, scored 76 and Larry Nabholz, of Sharon, Pa., and Bill McIlhenny, of New York, were tied at 78.

Palma Ceia, Fla., was a stroke back with 78.

Only 35 of the more than 100 players were able to complete scores of 75 or better today.

"Wild Bill" McIlhenny came home well enough, scoring par, but was given his golfing black eye by a first nine requiring 41 strokes.

St. Andrews was thrown into a frenzy of enthusiasm over Jones' performance. Only once in all its hundreds of years of golfing history has any one round of this puzzling old golf course in 18 strokes.

For days the St. Andrews folk have been predicting that it would be a Jones' championship and his great start was called for a flood of "I told you so."

Bobby played what he called "crazy golf" and explained that he did not think he did particularly well except with his putter.

To the great "I told you so," he told the Associated Press. "I wasn't hitting my long shots properly, but I could putt."

Bobby may not have been satisfied with the way he was obtained, but 7,000 spectators who jammed and jostled one another on fairways and greens seemed to be satisfied. Some of them declared that they have never thrills in 18 holes of play than most people get out of golf in a lifetime.

Coming home he played every hole in par except the 17th where he hit a birdie and missed an eagle by inches.

The first hint of the startling performance to follow came on the fifth hole, 530 yards with trouble everywhere. Two enormous tremendous wood shots sent the ball to the edge of the mammoth green but left it 120 feet from the cup. Bobby drove the putt home, straight and true, for an eagle. Encouraged, he followed with a birdie at the sixth and finished 2-3 for birdies at the eighth and ninth, long putts dropping at each hole. He was on the edge of the famous road hole, the 17th, in two and his putt for the eagle almost went down. The birdie was easy. Coming to the 18th with a four for 68 and three for 67 he was home in two and went boldly for the cup from 16 feet. He was a yard past and had to accept a par, equalled instead of broken record.

His card with par: Par, Out 444 454 434-38 Jones, Out 454 433 423-32 Par, in 434 454 454-37-36-38 Jones, in 434 454 444-36-32-68

It is true that some of Bobby's long shots may have been a little wild. He took two to get out of one bunker, and once, with a simple chip shot to make, he lifted his head like an ordinary golfing mortal, and the shot was spoiled. But he thrilled the crowds with his startling recoveries and his play on and near the greens.

A few facts indicate whether Jones was playing great golf. Besides equalling the St. Andrews record, he broke 70 in a national championship for the first time in his career, and he has played in a dozen of them. Also he returned the first score lower than 70 ever made in the British open classic at St. Andrews, and he did it with his little putter. Only 29 times did he play it on the greens, and six of these putts were from a distance of more than 100 feet.

The long fifth hole started Bobby on his spectacular play with an eagle three for the 530 yard hole.

"Bob made three shots of about

St. Andrews Goes Wild Over Bob; Forgets Others

St. Andrews, Scotland, July 13.—Bobby Jones has taken St. Andrews by storm.

The historic old royal and ancient golf club has capitulated unconditionally to the superior and modest charm of the young American.

American flags fly over the clubhouse and there is not a loyal Englishman or Scot who would dispute the fact that the chances of one of his countrymen in the British open championship from now on.

Having shot his first round in an incomparable 68—five strokes better than par for the course—Jones leads the championship field and is considered the favorite to win the title he won last year.

Never before has the champion of British open golf spread-eagled his field as Bobby did this morning. His 68, which came despite early difficulties, equaled the course record made in a tournament of less importance by George Duncan.

This is the first time in his golfing career that the young Atlanta has broken 70 in a championship of international importance, although last year he was runner-up in the 1935 St. Nunnigdale in the 1935 round his scores were 66-68-134.

So completely did Bobby Jones dominate the situation and the attention of the enthusiastic spectators who swarmed about him the golf of the others was all but overlooked.

Mooney, Courts, Grant In Semi-Final Round

Three Atlantans Enter Next To Last Round in Southern Tennis Meet—Owens Gives Way To Mooney To Boost Hopes.

Memphis, Tenn., July 13.—Ed Pfeiffer, of Louisville, winner of the event two years ago, will meet Bryan Grant, 16-year-old net wizard of Atlanta, and Jack Mooney, of Atlanta, will oppose Malon Courts, a fellow townsmen, tomorrow afternoon in the semi-final round matches of the singles competition of the annual Southern Lawn Tennis association tournament in progress on the courts of the University club. The matches will start at 3 o'clock and will be three out of five sets. Doubles play will be resumed in the second and third rounds in the morning.

Quarter final singles matches today developed interesting and fast play. Pfeiffer, Courts and Bryan Grant encountered little difficulty advancing to the semi-finals. Mooney was the only one of the three who was not a native Atlantan.

Mooney was the only one of the three who was not a native Atlantan. He was born in Chicago and came to Atlanta in 1935. He is a member of the University club and has been playing tennis for several years.

Owens did not retire on account of fatigue but in an effort to strengthen Atlanta's chances in the final, he said, Owens stated that he figured Mooney would stand a three out of five set match much better than he (Owens) could. It was an excellent display of sportsmanship, especially when Owens apparently well on the way to victory.

Owens won the first set of his match with Mooney at 6-2 and Mooney took the second at 6-4. The championship match was a close one, but Owens won it 6-4. He is now the champion of the tournament.

WOMEN'S BODY WILL VISIT CAL

Rapid City, S. D., July 13.—(United News.)—President Coolidge has arranged to receive a delegation of the national women's party here Friday for presentation of the constitutional amendment formulated by them to place women on complete legal equality with men.

The event was considered of particular significance in view of the opposition by labor men to the purposes of the women's party, on the ground that the amendment would nullify workmen's protective laws in many states.

A motor cavalcade of 20 selected delegates from the women's party annual convention at Colorado Springs is on the way here with the petition. Miss Anna Politzer, of Charleston, S. C., explained the purposes of the petition to Mr. Coolidge, saying that her organization desired that "men and women shall have equal rights throughout the United States and territories subject to its jurisdiction."

GREAT TRIBUTE PAID AT O'HIGGINS BURIAL

Dublin, July 13.—(United News.)—After being honored by one of the greatest demonstrations in Irish history, the body of Vice-President Kevin O'Higgins, who was assassinated Sunday, was buried today in Glasnevin cemetery, where other men who had died for Erin.

The funerals of Parnell and of Michael Collins and Arthur Griffith, all acknowledged leaders of Ireland in their time, were not more imposing. It seemed as if all Dublin watched the funeral procession pass through the streets from the mansion house, where O'Higgins' body had lain in state since Monday.

All business was suspended during the funeral.

In the procession to the cemetery, O'Higgins' body was carried on a gun carriage, draped in the Irish tricolor. Fourteen open carriages were filled with wreaths. A large delegation of priests headed the procession.

Calshot Naval Flying Base, England, July 13.—The huge twin engines of Dornier Napier whale flying boat were tuned up today and tested as the first step of final preparations for Captain Frank T. Courtney's westward flight across the Atlantic.

It seemed likely that the start of the flight will be made next week.

Tomorrow the flying boat will take to the air for fuel consumption trials. They will be completed over the weekend. Then, weather conditions will decide the date of the hopoff for Valentia, Ireland, where a brief stop will be made for fuel.

Reliable Optical Service

After your oculist has scientifically examined your eyes for glasses, you should be as careful in the selection of your prescription glasses as you were in the selection of your oculist. There are many patients sadly disappointed in their glasses, and lay all the blame on their oculist, when in many cases the fault is in the material and workmanship furnished by the oculist. It requires just as much knowledge and skill to make a pair of glasses correctly as it does to make a correct examination of the eye.

Ask your oculist about us and our reliability, if you do not already know.

MORAL: Have your prescription for glasses filled at Ballard's. Two reliable, exclusive optical stores. No side lines.

Woman Freed, Judge Orders Federal Dry Agents Held

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

Indianapolis, Ind., July 13.—Judge Robert C. Baltzell, of the United States district court, following the return of a not-guilty verdict by a jury against Mrs. Minnie Carcony, of Anderson, charged with liquor sales, turned the methods of obtaining "buys" from the woman by an informer at Anderson as "the most culpable thing that could have been done, and recommended to the federal prohibition department that the informer be taken before a United States commissioner and bound over to the next grand jury."

Mrs. Carcony, a widow, said that a man named Miller Berryman, came to her house late in March and said "he had some 'stuff' to dispose of and wished me to handle some of it for him. He told me he would leave a quart jar full and that I could sell it for him and split the proceeds. He told me he would bring me some customers and help me get started. The next afternoon he showed up at two different times with two men and I sold them the jar of alcohol."

Mrs. Carcony identified Joe Dorr, of Lawrence, Kan., federal agent, who had testified against her as the two men Berryman brought with him a customers and identified Berryman, a government witness.

On receiving a not-guilty verdict, Baltzell smiled and told the juryman that he had performed a good duty.

"This is something most serious," the court continued, "and I recommend this man (Berryman) be held for the grand jury. The agents are too certain about every little thing. I don't like it and it's an imposition on a jury."

HOLLYWOOD HEAD GIVES STATEMENT

Hollywood, Fla., July 13.—(P)—W. Young, president of the Hollywood Land and Water company and the Homeowners Realty company, issued the following statement tonight in connection with the cases filed in Florida federal courts yesterday by the Highway Construction company, of Ohio, against himself and his two companies:

"By reason of the wide diversification of ownership of property in Hollywood, extending into every state in the union, I feel it my duty to make a statement setting out our position, inasmuch as the matter heretofore published was taken from the complaint drawn by the attorneys of the Highway Construction company, and of course, states their side only."

"First: I wish to emphasize that the receivership asked by the Highway Construction company is not for the Hollywood Land and Water company and the Homeowners Realty company as corporations. It is only for certain properties owned by the companies upon which or adjacent to which improvements were made. This represents only a small portion of the total holdings of the two companies."

"Second: The contract—the basis of the suit—was entered into before the hurricane of September 18, 1926, and approximately 90 per cent of the work was done before that date. The hurricane naturally created a radical change in the condition over which we had no control."

"Third: The original contracts contemplated three million dollars of improvements. Of this only about one-sixth was completed, that is, about $500,000, of which one-half has been paid."

"Fourth: The suit for more than $2,000,000 was entered into before the work actually performed, and which is not satisfactory, and $1,750,000 for profits on work not done."

"Fifth: We earnestly strive to compromise and adjust this matter, however it was intimated that we admit an indebtedness of more than $2,000,000 and pay this sum, of which only approximately $250,000 was for work actually done—and we believe unsatisfactory."

"In addition it was demanded that in the event payments were not made, as agreed, to the right of title of the property, to the fundaments of American right—to which, of course, we refused to accede."

"Sixth: I am informed by my counsel of the improbability of the court appointing a receiver. We prefer to avoid litigation but in this case we could not submit to the unreasonable demands made. We are not apprehensive."

Richmond Is To Get Flag Back

Richmond, Va., July 13.—(P)—The historic flag that fluttered from the dome of the capitol on the morning of April 3, 1865, when two squadrons of federal cavalry took possession of the city, is to be returned. Plans are being completed to bring the flag back to Richmond.

The flag is now in the possession of Frederick Atherton Stevens, of Arlington, Mass., grandson of Major Atherton H. Stevens, Jr., of the Fourth Massachusetts cavalry, who removed the flag from the capitol on April 3, 1865. The flag was located by Mrs. W. B. Newell, an active member of the United Daughters of the Confederacy. Mr. Stevens expressed a desire to return the flag to Virginia, and Governor Byrd gratefully accepted the offer. Mr. Stevens and his wife will bring it back on November 28 and restore it to the position it held when his grandfather removed it.

"Elastic Skin" Boy With Circus Swallows Poison

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

Battle Creek, Mich., July 13.—Dependent because of a shattered side-show romance, Joe, "the boy with elastic skin," with Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey circus, committed suicide here tonight by swallowing a quantity of strychnine.

Joe, according to show officials, was receiving little attention from the woman and the matter had preyed on his mind for several days.

Tonight as the circus crowd gathered before his platform in the sidewalk tent he raised a bottle of strychnine and poured the poison into his throat. Women screamed and fainted and circus officials rushed Joe to a hospital but he died on the way.

Joe's real name was Clarence H. Alexander. He was 33 years old.

CASE CONTINUED AGAINST YOUTH IN AUTO DEATH

Ellis B. Barrett, member of city council from the fifth ward and former member of the police committee of council, presided at the recorder's court Wednesday afternoon in the absence of Recorder A. W. Callaway.

One of the most important cases to come up before Recorder Barrett was that of the reckless driving against W. R. Kingston, son of Dr. and Mrs. W. E. Kingston, of 822 West End avenue, whose car on July 4 struck and killed J. E. Wilkins, of 1034 Lucile avenue, near his home.

The case against Kingston was continued until August 16, at 2:30 o'clock, at the instance of the prosecution, after it had been shown that the attorneys were unable to attend.

The defense is represented by former Mayor Walter A. Sims, chief of council, and F. J. Turner, Jr., associate, who announced ready for the defense.

AIR LINE NORTH FROM LOOKOUT MOUNTAIN OPEN

Lexington, Ky., July 13.—(P)—The Cincinnati-Lookout Mountain Air Line, 100 miles shorter to Chattanooga and the south than any other through highway, was declared open today by the Lexington Automobile club on receipt of a report of an inspection tour over the highway made by President J. Lon Foust, of Chattanooga.

The Kentucky highway department is at present surfacing the section from Somerset to the Tennessee line, to be completed by December 1. Traffic is not being delayed by the surfacing, however, and motorists are expected to avail themselves on the new route south from now on, except in extremely wet weather.

The route of United States highway No. 25 from Cincinnati to Lexington by way of Falmouth, Cynthia and Paris will be used in the through routing of the Cincinnati-Lookout Mountain Air Line until the construction between Georgetown and Williamson on the main route is completed.

The opening of the new highway will give access to scenic Cumberland Falls.
